BY LYNN HEINZERLING

Vienna, July 6 (AP)—The Russians announced today they had taken ownership of a major part of Austria's industrial capacity and other property as German reparations, and the Austrian cabinet summoned a special meeting of parliament.

The Russians acted without informing their Allies. Austrian officials declared the Soviets were claiming 75 percent of the Republic's industrial capacity.

The Soviet order took over $22,000,000 worth of industry in eastern Austria along with other "German external assets." The Russians insist property taken by the Germans after annexing Austria in 1938 is subject to seizure as German reparations under the Potsdam agreement—a view protested by the United States and by Austria.

Parliament Session Called

Gen. Mark Clark, American commander in Austria, immediately sent a message to Soviet commander Col. Gen. L. V. Kursov urging great care in the carrying out of his order, and one to the Austrian government declaring it was not necessary to turn over property which was not a German asset.

Chancellor Leopold Figl's cabinet after a special meeting called an extraordinary session of parliament for next Wednesday. A communiqué declared Socialist and Communist members of the government joined with other members in the view that properties which were Austrian before the annexation should still be regarded as Austrian and not as German assets.

For months the Russians have been taking control of properties in eastern Austria which they classify as German assets. The United States has objected that properties taken forcibly by the Germans should not be classified as German-owned.

Council Not Informed

The Russians have refused to discuss the question in the Allied council for Austria, but last May 15 agreed they would not seize any more properties without informing the council.

The government communiqué said the cabinet did not have the right to comply with the Soviet order without authorization by the Allied council. It said the Russian-claimed properties had decisive significance for Austrian reconstruction and economy, and that the Potsdam agreement under which the Russians acted never had been disclosed officially to the Austrian government.

The Russian order, published by the Red Army newspaper today, was signed by Kursov as "commander-in-chief of Soviet occupation troops in Austria." It was dated June 27 and provided that the transfer of ownership was to be completed in 10 days—by today.

Among the properties seized are a large proportion of the chemical industry, including Austria's entire sulfuric acid and plastics production, most of the electrical industry, all of the artificial silk, paper, and glass factories. This includes all window glass production and all railroad signal equipment.

Bevin Assails Soviets;
Says Reds Don't Want
Peace Confab July 29

BY JOSEPH DYNAN

Paris, July 6 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin in a bitter debate tonight charged that Russia was trying to back out of her agreement to call a European peace conference July 29. American informants reported, and the big four ministers remained deadlocked for a second day.

The ministers adjourned their deadlocked session until Monday afternoon without having reached an agreement on how to convene the conference and without authorizing the issuing of invitations.

Bevin and U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes both told Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov that they could not agree to his proposal that rules of procedure be imposed upon the peace parley by the four-power foreign ministers, they said.

In a 4½ hour session, Bevin asserted that Molotov appeared to be stipulating new conditions to summoning the 21-nation conference after Britain, France and the United States had accepted all the other Soviet conditions.

The British minister declared he already had assured his own government and the Dominions that he would not agree to anything which might limit their freedom at the peace conference.

Challenges Molotov

Looking squarely at Molotov, Bevin demanded that the Soviet minister fulfill his part of the ministers' bargain on Italian reparations, British informants said. They quoted Bevin as saying:

"Two days ago you agreed on the date of the peace conference. Now you are devising a plan to veto it unless we first agree with you on the rules of the procedure. In effect, you are going back on your agreement that the conference should meet on July 29."

"The world should better know this. At that time not one word was said about rules of procedure."

Yesterday Soviet Minister V. M. Molotov opposed inclusion of China as an inviting power and sought to insert rules of procedure for the conference in invitations which France, as the host nation, would send out.

Before today's meeting U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes conferred privately with British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Chinese Ambassador Dr. Tsiang Tai, presumably to discuss British and American desires to have China included as an inviting power.

Both Bevin and Byrnes contested Molotov's stand at yesterday session.

Sound Viewpoint?

(In Moscow a highly placed foreign diplomat declared the results thus far of the foreign ministers conference upheld the belief that the Soviet Union desired international cooperation to succeed. He cautioned against deep despair by the public when the powers appear unable to reach agreement, and also against "foolish optimism" when some settlements are achieved.)

(A Tass dispatch from Paris declared that all the major problems at the meeting were solved when agreement was reached July 4 on questions centering around peace treaty drafts. The Tass correspondent said that Molotov had insisted upon not presenting the conference with "half digested" proposals, and that "the soundness of the Soviet viewpoint has now been confirmed entirely in practice.")

Legislator

Washington, July 6 (AP)—Evidence before the senate war investigating committee today that an A. J. May endorsed $18,434.07 in checks and a draft paid by two munitions firms to the Cumberland Lumber company brought an assertion from Rep. Andrew J. May (D-Ky.) that "There was nothing out of line" with the lumber firm's accounts.

The committee's investigation into the war contracts of the Erie Basin Metal Products Company and Batavia Metal Products Company, two units of a 19-firm Illinois munitions combine, brought these developments:

1—Edward Schaffer of the general accounting office testified that the Batavia and Erie Basin firms paid $48,634 in advances to the Cumberland Lumber Company, whose agent was an Andrew J. May of Prestonsburg, Ky.

2—Schaffer testified that one of the checks paid by the Erie Basin to the Cumberland concern, for $3,156.47, bore the individual endorsement of A. J. May in addition to the signature on behalf of the Cumberland Lumber Company.

3—Schaffer said that no lumber ever was delivered, as far as he could determine, by the Cumberland Company and that he was unsuccessful in learning names of the owners of the company.

4—Schaffer said one of the checks was endorsed "A. J. May, president," and added that the check for $3,156.47 was cashed at the First National Bank of Prestonsburg, Ky.

(The A. J. May and Andrew J. May referred to by Schaffer were not identified other than by Prestonsburg, Ky., which is the home town of Rep. May, chairman of the military committee.)

5—Senator Mitchell (D-Wash.), a member of the investigating committee, demanded that Rep. May be summoned for questioning, and since, as a member of congress Rep. May would be immune to subpoena, Mitchell recommended that the senate and

A telephone call last night informed relatives here they were "in trouble somewhere near Chicago," and led to the conjecture they may be held by kidnapers. The three were Major Thomas Walker Jurka, 31, his wife, Virginia, and his stepson, Billie, 6.

He was known to have had several thousand dollars in cash when they left Toronto. His San Francisco bank said today he had wired for $2,000 to be sent to him in care of the main Western Union office, Detroit.

The telephone call last night to Mrs. Jurka's mother, Mrs. L. F. Schroeder, led her to conjecture, she said today, the three may be held by kidnapers.

The major was evasive in his reply to questions, she said. Her daughter's voice was not normal, and she wouldn't answer questions. Little Billie's conversation consisted mainly of queries about his puppy here. Mrs. Schroeder said her daughter and son-in-law talked as if they were under duress.

The Jurkas were to have flown to the Philippines on June 26.

With drownings exacting the greatest toll, Michigan went into the fourth day of its extended Fourth of July weekend today with a record of 25 violent deaths. Sixteen persons drowned as thousands sought diversion on the water, heavy traffic exacted seven deaths, and other holiday-related mishaps took two lives.

Nationally, 285 persons had lost their lives since Wednesday night. Today's national survey revealed 136 traffic deaths, 80 drownings, and 69 deaths from other causes.

The most recent Michigan drownings included the following: Charles Holstrom, 27, of Menominee, victim of a capsizing boat while fishing in Green Bay. John Novak, 60, of Iron River, whose boat capsized in Winslow lake while he was fishing.

DEMO SPLIT
THREAT TO
OPA REVIVALWHERRY WOULD CUT
MEAT, POULTRY
OFF LIST

BY JACK BELL

Washington, July 6 (AP)—A Democratic split threatened today to block the revival of meat price controls in any OPA renewal bill the senate may pass next week.

With Republicans massing behind him, minority whip Wherry (Neb.) told a reporter he is satisfied at least a dozen senate Democrats also will support his proposal to cut meat and poultry off the list of controlled products if the Office of Price Administration is revived.

Senator Murdock (D-Utah), said, however, that if any such action finally is sustained by congress and the bill is sent to the president in that form, he expects that it will be vetoed.

Murdock, himself a stockman, challenged Wherry's estimate of majority support for the elimination of meat, asserting:

"I can't see how any Democrat can go against the president's wishes in such a grave crisis."

Will Support Wherry

But there was ample evidence that several Democrats intend to support the Wherry proposal. Already publicly committed to this course are such veterans as Senators George of Georgia, McCarran of Nevada and Radcliffe of Maryland.

Administration lieutenants admitted that an informal nose count indicated they will have to bring back to Washington some of the senators who have gone home to patch up their political fences if they are to have a chance of beating down what they tabbed as a "highly objectionable" amendment.

It will be the senate's first head-on collision with the meat issue. Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) carefully avoided any such showdown when he was piloting through the original extension bill which President Truman vetoed.

In that case, a committee vote to decontrol meat, poultry and dairy products was allowed to stand without a roll call challenge. This allowed a senate-house conference committee to reinstate such controls and send back to both houses a report that was approved without a separate vote on the issue.

Record Senate Vote?

But Wherry said he is determined to get a record senate vote this time. If he wins, Barkley then will be obliged to attempt to eliminate the amendment in conference and seek to avoid a vote on that question when the bill comes up for final passage.

Wherry split his decontrol proposals in a series of amendments, to be offered separately. He put meat and poultry in one, combinations of the other products in others and held in reserve an over-all proposition should be

RED MANEUVER
IS PREDICTEDDiplomats Say Soviets
Want To Keep Armies
In Europe

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, July 6 (AP)—A Russian maneuver to keep Soviet armies spread over Eastern Europe as long as possible is being predicted privately by diplomatic authorities here despite the progress on peace-making at Paris.

Failure of the Russians to follow such a line, it is said, would mark a major change in Kremlin foreign policy, and would ease tensions among the great powers far more than is expected as things now stand.

The withdrawal of occupation armies as early as possible is known to be one of the objectives of Secretary of State Byrnes. One of the reasons Byrnes has been in haste to lay down peace treaties with Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Finland this summer is his expressed belief that this would be the first step toward getting Russian armies out of those countries.

The logical next steps in that Byrnes program would be conclusion of a peace treaty with Austria and review of German occupation problems which have a bearing on the number of Russian troops in Poland.

Some information reaching Washington is that the issue of occupation armies already is taking form. Byrnes is reported by some informants to favor an agreement among the big powers that occupation troops would be withdrawn from a country about three months after the peace treaty had been signed.

Foreign Commissar Molotov, on the other hand, reportedly favors making ratification of the treaty the critical point by which to fix the deadline for troop removals. Since months or even years may elapse between the time that a treaty is signed and the time that it is ratified by all the signatories (in the United States it would have to be first approved by the senate), Molotov's proposal would give Russia much greater leeway in maintaining troops in other countries.

The total of these troops is now estimated by some authorities here at at least 1,500,000 men, possibly considerably more.

1. It will end the wartime currency and trade discrimination in England and in many other countries that prevents restoration of world trade on a peacetime basis.

2. It will make possible the prompt and effective implementation of the Bretton Woods agreement for a world bank and monetary stabilization fund.

3. It will "help in the establishment of the orderly international economic relations which are essential to our prosperity and to world peace."

The United States Chamber of Commerce said the loan would tend to maintain Britain as a bulwark against the spread of Communism.

On the other hand the opposition called for Congress to look after America's war veterans and aged, before making any large foreign loans. A group of 75 House members—74 Republicans and one Progressive—signed a statement in opposition. They said they would "dedicate" the first day of debate as "veterans and old age pension day."

AM-VETS Want
Housing Program
Instead Of Bonus

Lansing, July 6 (AP)—The American Veterans' Committee urged Governor Kelly today to substitute a veterans housing and business loan program for a veterans' bonus proposal to be submitted to a special session of the legislature next Tuesday.

Neil Staebler, of Ann Arbor, representative of the AVC, called for a state revolving fund to make available low-interest loans for low-cost housing and to enable veterans to set themselves up in business.

A bonus, such as proposed, of a maximum $500 would be too small to assist veterans in solving their major problems, Staebler said.

The AVC also urged that any loans to servicemen be financed by an income tax of less than one per cent on incomes over $3,000.

VAN WAGONER
FORCES HALT
REBELLIONBEVAN, VAN AUKEN OPPOSED AT LANSING

BY JACK I. GREEN

Lansing, July 6 (AP)—A rank-and-file rebellion in Michigan's Democratic party boiled out on the party's state convention floor here today as an apparent majority of the delegates howled unsuccessfully for the scalps of their two national committee members, E. Cyril Bevan and Mrs. Clara Van Auker.

The forces of Murray D. Van Wagoner, nominee for governor, in complete control of the convention otherwise, finally resorted to outright stream roller tactics to quell the uprising and adjourned the convention while a resolution still was pending to demand the resignations of the two committee members.

"Repudiate" Bevan

President Truman's nomination, with endorsement of Bevan and Mrs. Van Auker, of Theodore Levin of Detroit and Justice Raymond W. Starr of the state supreme court for two vacant federal district court appointments were the cause of the uprising.

A strongly worded resolution read to the convention by Harry Glass, Jr., of Grand Rapids, resolutions committee chairman, declared the party "repudiated" the leadership of Bevan and Mrs. Van Auker and charged them with ignoring both the wishes and welfare of the party. The resolution condemned Levin as having been on a reception committee for a former Republican presidential candidate and for not being a Democrat, and objected that Starr's appointment to the federal bench cost the Democrats a state supreme court post.

On a test of strength and a motion to table the resolution, the party leadership lost by a vote of 1,136 to 747.

Then the leadership put a motion to adjourn before the house. Observers were certain that it was a rump session, but Carl Weideman, Wayne county circuit court commissioner and permanent chairman, declared the meeting adjourned. The delegates howled. Some leaped to the platform and attempted to organize a rump session, but it gradually petered out.

Little Opposition

Some leaders of the anti-Bevan-Van Auker forces stormed out of the hall shouting "We'll vote for Sigler." (Kim Sigler is the Republican nominee for governor.)

Before the last-minute row, Van Wagoner's slate for his running mates in November slid through on graced wheels. The only opposition and that was not spirited, was to his choice of Victor E. Bucknell, of Vicksburg, for the nomination for state supreme court justice.

Bucknell defeated Edward T. Kane of Algonac and Howard L. Campbell of Manistee.

The remainder of the ticket chosen all without opposition.

HOGAN ON TOP AT COLUMBUS

Hershey Pro Leads Field With Four Under Par

BY HAROLD HARRISON
Columbus, O., July 6 (AP)—Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., whose pockets already are bulging with almost $25,000 in 1946 golf winnings did just as expected today and moved out front in the chase for the $25,000 top money in the Columbus invitational open golf tournament.

Little Ben rarely had a bad moment as he fired a four under par 68 for a 36-hole total of 138.

That was only one stroke better, however, than Ray Hill of Akron, O., and Ed (Porky) Oliver of Wilmington, Del., who were tied for second with 139 each in a tightly packed field that had 11 players within four strokes of each other.

Hill, a 32-year-old Army veteran who is assistant to Herman Keiser at Akron, O., had the hottest round of the tournament when he blazed around the Columbus Country club course in 66, six under par and only a stroke off the course record, that went with his first round score of 73.

Oliver went four under par for a 32 and his outgoing birdie but took par 36 coming back for a 68 to go with his first round count of 71.

The 140 bracket was jammed with hot shot players. In that group were Ray Mangrum of Los Angeles, amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O.; Jim Millward of Madison, Wis.; Byron Nelson of Toledo and Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Tex.

Budnick's Homer Gives Yankees 7-6 Win From Phillies

New York, July 6 (AP)—In addition to turning in a fine relief performance, Mike Budnick cracked his first major league home run today to break a 6-6 tie and give the New York Giants a 7-6 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Budnick's was one of four Giant homers which accounted for all except one of the team's runs. Sid Gordon belted the first round tripper in the second inning to give the Giants a short lived 1-0 lead. The Phils knocked starter Bob Joyce off the hill in the third frame with a four run rally and tallied two more in the next stanza when Johnny Wyrostek straightened one of Budnick's slants for a circuit smash.

Detroit Sandlots Catcher Selected For Esquire Game

Detroit, July 6 (AP)—Hobart (Hobby) Landrith, 16-year-old catcher on the Detroit sandlots, today was selected by the Detroit Free Press' board of experts to represent Michigan in the annual Esquire All-America Boys' Baseball Game at Chicago August 10.

Landrith was selected by the judges following a two-hour workout at Briggs Stadium with 15 other candidates representing eight Michigan cities.

Chosen as alternates were Bob Rickard, Flint third baseman, and Ben Downs, Detroit shortstop.

Selection of Landrith to make the trip constitutes the first time Michigan has contributed a player for any position except pitcher since the All-America Game was originated.

Parker Vs. Talbert In Finals Of Clay Court Tournament

River Forest, Ill., July 6 (AP)—National Champion Frankie Parker, seeking his fourth meet title, hustled into the finals of the National Clay Court Tennis tournament today by easily brushing aside Veteran Seymour Greenberg of Chicago, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

Greenberg, clay courts champion in 1943 and 1944, was on the defensive most of the way as Parker toyed with his southpaw opponent to outscore him on placements, 43 to 20, and on points, 106 to 61.

By his triumph, Parker barged into tomorrow's finals against defending Champion Billy Talbert of Wilmington, Del., who yesterday polished off Gardner Mulloy of Miami, Fla., in their semi-final tussle.

JOHN'S PRIDE WINS

Detroit, July 6 (AP)—John's Pride, for whom J. A. Kinard, Jr., paid $18,000 as a yearling, captured the 2-year-old championship of the Detroit Fairgrounds summer race meeting today by winning the $10,000 Champ Handicap at five furlongs.

John's Pride, nominated for the Arlington futurity next week, led virtually all the way in beating River Scotch by a length and a half. Clocked in 1:01 for the five furlongs, John's Pride paid $5.70 straight. The Mahmoud colt has finished no worse than second in six straight races here.

TOP TWO-YEAR OLD

Boston, July 6 (AP)—The hard-running Mel Eppler, purchased as a yearling for $4,000 by Lorraine C. Melrose, Cleveland hotel man, stamped himself as one of the season's top two-year-olds today by scoring a three-quarter lengths win over S. D. Siddell's Silee in the $25,000 added Mayflower stakes before a closing day crowd of 27,367 at Suffolk Downs.

Barkley and his aides appeared confident today they have the votes to defeat a price-raising amendment by Senator Taft (R-Ohio). It parallels a proposal which Mr. Truman labelled the "most damaging provision of the measure he vetoed."

OPA Administrator Paul Porter already has said he will not recommend a veto if Barkley's substitute profits amendment goes to the president in the form it was approved by the committee Thursday.

Senate debate begins on the measure Monday, with administration leaders striving for a vote by mid-week. However, delaying tactics by opponents may put off any early conclusion with the result that price controls may remain off beyond mid-month.

NYU Ace Leading In AAU Decathlon

Bloomfield, N. J., July 6 (AP)—Irving Mondschein, New York University A. C. ace, and 1944 winner, led the 15 others with 3,719 points today at the half-way mark in the two-day 28th annual National Amateur Athletic Union decathlon championships at the Brookdale Park.

Charley Beaudry, defending champion, a representative of the Marquette A. C., Milwaukee, Wis., who won the national pentathlon July 4 at Elizabeth, did not compete.

Mondschein took first in the 16 pound shot put with a heave of 43 feet, eight and four-tenths inches and in the running high jump with a six feet three inches leap. He placed fourth in the running broad jump, tied for fourth in the 100-meter dash and went unplaced in the 400-meter run.

U. S. Sculler Loses In Royal Regatta

Henley, England, July 6 (AP)—John B. Kelly, Jr., handsome Philadelphia sailor, failed in his try today for the Henley Royal Diamond Sculls—an event from which his father once was barred. Rowing before royalty and thousands of spectators, the 19-year-old naval enlisted man finished three lengths behind Jean Sepharades, of Paris, for four years France's sculling champion. The Frenchman drove his shell across the finish line of the one mile, 550 yard course in 8 minutes, 21 seconds.

Kelley, U. S. interscholastic sculling champion last year, had sought the Diamond Sculls award—rowing's highest international prize—to make up for his father's disqualification 26 years ago.

Bahrt said tonight he already had received one reply and that he hoped to get more later.

6—In the first of two statements May said he had never profited from his relations with the Illinois group, declared that he had appeared before the committee in executive session June 4, and called on Senator Mead, the investigating committee chairman, to make public what he said then.

7—In his second statement, Rep. May declared "There was nothing out of line" with the accounts of the Cumberland Lumber Company, that his June 4 testimony "included the Cumberland Lumber Company thoroughly," and that all documents, financial accounts and statements relating to that firm were placed in the hands of the committee.

8—The investigating committee met in closed session during the afternoon with these three justice department officials in attendance.

9—In Prestonsburg, Ky., it was recalled that Rep. May confirmed to a reporter Dec. 28, 1943 that he had become the principal owner of a tract of some 2,000 acres of timberland near Padridge, Ky., and that it would be operated as the Cumberland Lumber Company.

May further said then that he planned to install a mill to process heavy stands of timber, but that the Cumberland company had "no particular market" in prospect for the lumber. On June 10, 1945, A. C. Brown, identified as a Whitesburg, Ky., businessman, confirmed that he had bought the Cumberland Company from May at a price said to have been $32,000.

Toll Of Holiday Deaths Mounts To 306; 87 Drowned

(By The Associated Press)

Fourth of July holiday deaths rose to 306 yesterday (Saturday). Compared with advance predictions, however, the toll of death from violent causes indicated that safety-conscious Americans were keeping their celebration of the long Independence Day weekend on a comparatively safe and sane level.

Safety experts predicted the real test would come today (Sunday) when millions of motorists who left their homes for the holiday period return over the traffic-clogged roads.

A survey showed that since 6 p. m. (Local Time) Wednesday, 146 persons were killed in traffic accidents, 87 drowned and 73 met death from miscellaneous accidental causes.

The National Safety Council had predicted the four-day holiday would cause 1,300 deaths from violent causes including 450 traffic accident victims and 450 of the 800 probably killed outright, 275 would be traffic fatalities.

New York led the states with 26 violent deaths. Six states, Arkansas, Delaware, Georgia, Maine, Vermont and Rhode Island, reported no accidental deaths.

Celestial navigation was not taken up seriously by aviation until toward the end of 1930.

L. Bannigan, assistant Wayne county prosecutor.

For State Treasurer—John J. Kozaren, Wayne county treasurer defeated for renomination at the primaries.

For Auditor General—Marvin Coon, of Escanaba, former warden of the Marquette branch prison.

All but Kozaren are veterans of either the first or second World War. Campbell and Bannigan and Doyle served in World War I and Coon in both wars.

The nominations were peaceful but there was no peace all day in the resolutions committee room.

Van Wagoner made a personal appeal to halt the resolution and failed.

Frank FitzGerald, of Detroit, former candidate for mayor of Detroit and United States senator and who had sought the federal district court appointment in eastern Michigan, told the committee in Van Wagoner's presence he had been defeated for those posts by "racial and religious prejudice" and charged Bevan and Mrs. Van Auken with similar feelings. He said a "no Irish need apply" sign had been posted figuratively by them.

"If this resolution isn't reported," FitzGerald said, "I will take a sabbatical leave from the party until these two are gone."

Van Wagoner told the committee the resolution would "split the party."

"These two are not in my camp and never have been," he said. "But this is not the time to settle it. Wait for the national convention."

Legislature Will Consider Control Of Rents, Prices

Detroit, July 6 (AP)—A week of uncontrolled prices came to an end today with Michigan's cost-of-living index shimmying like a high-speed auto with the clutch out.

The state government moved to clamp the lid on any rent spiral with a price-control call to the special "bonus legislature" which convenes in Lansing Tuesday.

Even as this call went out, pressure groups of landlords and tenants announced plans to converge on the capital to plead on opposite sides of the rent control issue.

Some indication of what tenants may expect from any state rent control act came from Michigan's junior senator, Homer Ferguson. He told a group of Detroiters Friday that he would consider a general 10 per cent rent increase justified.

Midland, Mich., July 6 (AP)—A preview of the 1946 Michigan PGA golf tournament will be staged here Sunday, July 14, when most of the state's top-flight professional stars compete in a 36-hole medal play invitational tournament.

Sam Byrd of Detroit, state PGA champion in 1944 and 1945; Chick Harbert; Al Watrous; Chick Rutan; Horton Smith, and Joe Belmore all of Detroit, and Ed Furgol of Pontiac head the field.

The tournament was arranged as a tribute to Gilbert A. Currie, president of the Midland Country Club since 1926.

American Netters Take Four Championships In England

BY BILL MACKLIN

Wimbledon, July 6 (AP)—Headed by golden haired Pauline Betz, California's sun-tanned tennis brigade swept through to four championships today as the all-England tournament wound up its first post-war fortnight before a crowd of 14,000, including the 70-year-old Queen Mother Mary.

Miss Betz started the American avalanche with a 6-2, 6-4 victory over her Wightman Cup teammate, Louise Brough, on the sun-drenched center court in the singles' final and from there on the gallery sat back and watched an unbroken string of triumphs by the free-swingers from the West Coast.

Tom Brown and Jack Kramer stamped themselves a potential American Davis Cup doubles combination with an impressive, slambang victory over the highly rated Australian pair, Dinny Pails and Geoff Brown, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2, in the final of men's doubles.

Flying To Sweden

Brown later teamed with Miss Brough to capture his second championship by defeating Geoff Brown and Dorothy Bundy, 6-4, 6-4, in the final of mixed doubles.

The all-American final in Women's doubles saw Miss Brough and Margaret Osborne outlast Miss Betz and Doris Hart of Miami, Fla., 6-3, 2-6, 6-3, in a renewal of a long-standing feud.

The only championship that escaped the American contingent in the first Wimbledon since 1939 was the highly-prized men's singles, which towering Yvon Petra of France won yesterday with a five-set victory over Geoff Brown. Americans led by Bobby Riggs made a clean sweep in '39.

Three of the newly-crowded American champions, Tom Brown, Miss Betz and Miss Osborne, together with another Californian, Budge Patty, will fly to Sweden tomorrow to play a series of exhibitions at the invitation of that nation's King Gustav. Sweden's Davis Cup players also will participate in the exhibitions on July 9, 10 and 11.

League Leading Red Sox Nicked 4 to 0 By Washington Senators

Washington, July 6 (AP)—Stout-hearted Mickey Haefner fought off the bludgeoning Boston Red Sox today and posted Washington's first home victory of the season over the league leaders, 4-0.

The little lefthander pitched his way out of precarious positions in scoring his second win over the vaunted pacesetters within a week. The Senators knocked Mickey Harris, 11-game winner, out of the box in the fourth.

Joe Grace's booming triple launched a two-run Washington attack in the first inning. Buddy Lewis' long fly scored Grace, Stan Spence walked, took third on Mickey Vernon's single and raced home on Gerry Priddy's infield out.

A sharp double play helped Haefner out of his most dangerous spot in the fifth. Pinky Higgins' double, a walk to Partee and a single by Jim Bagby, who relieved Harris, filled the bases with one out. But Gil Torres routed a double play via Priddy to retire the side.

Two Seagull Races Scheduled Today

Two races of the annual seagull series for the Gust Asp trophy will be run off today at the Escanaba harbor, it has been announced by the Escanaba Yacht club.

The first race will start at two o'clock off the harbor entrance. Bert Henne will be the starter. The course will be north to the can buoy, south to the red flag buoy at Stonington and back to the starting line, and then reverse for the second lap of the race. The second race will start shortly after the conclusion of the first.

Film Magnate's Horse Sets Record In Vanity Handicap

Inglewood, Calif., July 6 (AP)—Louis B. Mayer's Be Faithful sized up a new track record of 1:42 flat in winning the $25,000 mile and one-sixteenth Vanity Handicap by six lengths today at Hollywood Park. Lasting Peace was second, a neck ahead of Double F. F.

Be Faithful, ridden by Jackie Westrope, was rated second behind Miss Doreen for three-quarters, then came around to open a wide gap as she clipped two-fifths off the former track mark of 1:42 2-5, set by Sir Jeffrey in 1941.

The four year old brown daughter of Bimblech out of Blood Root was the 6-5 favorite, coupled with Widow's Peak and returned $4.50, $3.00 and $2.20. Lasting Peace paid $6.70 and $3.00, while Double F. F. rewarded her backers with $2.50 for show.

World's Net Pro Champ, Bobby Riggs Beaten By Van Horn

Philadelphia, July 6 (AP)—Welby Van Horn, Nashville, Tenn., today dramatically upset the world's professional tennis titleholder, Bobby Riggs, 4-6, 4-6, 9-7, 6-4, 6-2 to gain the final round of the middle states professional grass court championship tournament.

Van Horn's win took two hours and 33 minutes. It was the U. S. professional titleholder's first victory over the Pasadena, Calif., ace since 1939, when Riggs defeated him for the national amateur singles championship at Forest Hills. It was also Van Horn's second upset victory in two days as he had stopped Frank Kovacs in straight sets yesterday.

Horse Refuses To Run; Bettors Get Wagers Refunded

Westbury, N. Y., July 6 (AP)—A disturbance occurred at the harness races at Roosevelt Raceway tonight when some 500 indignant patrons who had wagered on the first race favorite, Rice Krispie, who failed to start when the barrier was removed swarmed onto the track in protest against the delay in refunding bets.

CIRCUIT COURT OPENS MONDAY

Judge Bell Not Expected To Preside Because Of Illness

The July non-jury term of circuit court for Delta county will open Monday morning at the court house in Escanaba, but Judge Frank A. Bell of Negaunee is not expected to preside because of illness. According to information received by local attorneys, it was expected that the presiding jurist will be either Judge Joseph E. Moynihan of Detroit or Judge Thomas J. Landers of Ironwood.

Court will convene at 9:30 a. m. for naturalization hearings. Later in the morning the court will conduct a review of the calendar for the term, determining cases which are to come to trial.

Criminal cases scheduled for arraignment are as follows:

William Wilson of Ensign, charged with statutory rape.
Gerald Madden, Gladstone, and Jens Wheaton, Gladstone, charged with violation of the game law.
Fred C. Homer, Escanaba, charged with drunk driving.

Oliver Desotelle, Gladstone, charged with non-support.

Breaking and Entering

Vernel Olson, held in jail, and Paul Furlie, out on bond, Escanaba youths charged with breaking and entering the Fred Breitenbach store in Escanaba.

Lyle Hendrickson, Rock, now in jail, charged with burglary.

Joseph Blanchette and Michael Sullivan, Escanaba, both charged with disorderly conduct, third offense.

Marco Katrinski, Frank Kolich and Robert Provo of Escanaba, charged with entering the Fred Breitenbach store in Escanaba.

George Paul of Nahma, charged with grand larceny in a theft of $80 from a store in Nahma.

Non-jury civil cases scheduled for hearings are as follows:

Nick Sigan vs. James R. Andrews, assumpt; John M. Lash vs. Oliver Estenson, mandamus; David S. Coon vs. George Nolden; Ernest J. Sederlund, Rose Anderson, Vernice Herscheid and Lillian Groos, appeal from probate court; Herbert J. Norton vs. Wilmer Pierson, assumpt; Walter Eagle vs. Clement and Joseph A. Larson, trespass on the case; Mercedes Beauchamp vs. Victor W. Kraus.

McNabb Hearing

Of public interest is the action by Marcus McNabb of Escanaba, member of the Delta county road commission removed by the county board of supervisors, who is through certiorari seeking to have the board's action set aside. It is not expected the hearing will be held at this term because a transcript of the hearing before the board is not yet completed by the stenographer, William McMahon, Newberry, circuit court stenographer for Judge Runnels.

Two actions to permit a delayed appeal to circuit court from a justice court decision are scheduled for hearing. The petitioners are John Anquill, district conservation supervisor at Escanaba, and Dan Baess, former district supervisor here.

Thirteen divorce actions are listed among the chancery cases. In addition Emma Vietzke seeks a bill for injunction against August E. Vietzke; and Doris M. Ralph is plaintiff in specific performance action against Jacob B. Casper, administrator of the estate of Kolman Casper.

Educators Will Meet In Marquette

Marquette—At least 100 Upper Peninsula teachers and school administrators are expected to come here next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday to attend a reading conference sponsored by Northern Michigan college in cooperation with the University of Michigan, the state department of public instruction, and the Upper Peninsula curriculum planning committee, organized here last spring.

Planned to provide an opportunity for school men to think constructively about improvement of reading programs, the conference will provide lectures, exhibits, discussions and demonstrations intended, according to W. C. Hoppes, chairman, "to deal with concrete problems and to furnish practical suggestions for their solution."

Out-state speakers will be Miss Prudence Cutright, assistant superintendent of Minneapolis schools; Miss Mabel E. Halverson, first grade teacher from Milwaukee, and Miss Blanche Breed, supervisor of elementary schools, Peoria, Ill.

The University of Michigan representative is Irving H. Anderson, associate professor of education, who has done work at Harvard university and the University of Iowa, and who during his naval service engaged in research on radiophone readings.

Experienced Classroom Teacher

Miss Breed, a graduate of Western Illinois State Teachers' college and the University of Chicago, has had wide experience as a classroom teacher, principal of an elementary school, and as a critic teacher in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades in two Illinois teachers' colleges. Before going to Peoria as elementary school supervisor, she was supervisor of elementary schools in Weston, Ill.

Miss Halverson received a master's degree from Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., and has taught remedial reading at the state teachers' college, Eau Claire, Wis. An experienced first grade teacher, she also taught remedial reading to grades three to six.

Recently Miss Halverson, together with Miss Mary Meighan, Escanaba elementary school supervisor, produced a series of school workbooks, "Phonics We Use."

Cowpuncher Will Push Wheelbarrow
In Global Journey

Ellensburg, Wash.—(AP). A 47-year-old former Montana cowpuncher, Larry Hightower, was striding along at four miles an hour today on the first leg of a wheelbarrow - pushing jaunt around the world in 12 years.

Wearing a red flasher on his coatails to warn night drivers, Hightower started yesterday over the Cascade mountains toward Seattle, steering a 55-pound white-painted wheelbarrow containing a radio receiving set and personal belongings.

His 20,000-mile itinerary goes from Seattle to San Francisco, where he'll board a boat for Hawaii. He plans to island hop to the Asiatic mainland and push along to Portugal to take a ship to New York.

And from New York?

"I'll keep pushing this wheelbarrow till I set it down right smack in the heart of Ellensburg," Hightower promised.

STATE FARMERS "WAIT AND SEE"

Uncertainty, Confusion
In First Open Market
In Four Years

Lansing, (AP)—A "wait and see" attitude is being taken generally by Michigan's farmers in the face of uncertainties resulting from the sudden removal of price ceilings.

The prices the farmer gets from his products is rising, agricultural economists pointed out today, but the cost of feed and supplies is shooting upwards in the first free market in four years.

At present, the farmer is benefiting because prices for what he produces is going up faster than costs are, Karl T. Wright of the farm management department at Michigan State College said, but "costs catch up, and when the reverse trend sets in and farm prices go down, the farmer suffers because his costs don't go down at the same time."

The man with beef or pork or grain to sell is in a favorable position, for the time being. The feeder who intends to maintain his herds is gambling with the price of grain which is rising in the open market and the value of the well-rounded animals he intends to sell at a later date, he explained.

"The first open market in four years leaves a lot of uncertainty and confusion about future farm operations," he declared. Farmers are long-range planners and can't change their operations in a hurry.

He said farmers in general were against subsidies and favor a free market. It is to their interests, in the long run, to have everything reasonable, including the prices on their own products. If prices stabilize at a reasonable level there might be prosperity for quite some time," Wright declared.

He reported the costs of farming have gone up more rapidly this year than at any time since the start of the war.

Grain authorities said there may not be too much inflation in those lines "because of the large crops coming in."

Sigler Slate Named

BACKED by virtually all of Wayne county's 467 votes, Kim Sigler, Republican gubernatorial nominee, held a firm control over the delegates to the party's state convention in Detroit and succeeded in getting his slate of candidates nominated without much difficulty.

Opposition to Sigler quickly folded up after the first test vote, and it was from all appearances a harmonious Republican nomination from then on. It appears now that the Republican standard bearer will receive full support from members of his party by the time the November election rolls around, and there will not be the defection to Murray D. Van Wagoner that was rumored shortly after Sigler's smashing victory in the primary.

The Upper Peninsula was slapped somewhat for its failure to support Kim Sigler in the primary for the Republican party will not have a candidate from north of the Straits for the second time in many years. Thus, a tradition that began with the election of Oramel B. Fuller of Ford River in 1903 has been broken again, the first time being when Vernon J. Brown of Mason was nominated and elected in 1938. The Upper Peninsula was again recognized by the Republican convention with the nomination and election of John D. Morrison of Marquette in 1944, but Morrison, who campaigned for Brown in the primary, apparently was not on Sigler's slate at the 1946 convention.

State Treasurer D. Hale Brake was the only member of Governor Kelly's present "cabinet" to win a place on the Republican state ticket, apparently with Sigler's approval. Nominee for secretary of state in place of Herman H. Dignan of Owosso was Fred M. Alger Jr. of Detroit, industrialist and ex-service man, whose family has been long prominent in Michigan affairs. His grandfather, General Russell A. Alger, served as secretary of state in the McKinley administration and as a United States senator from Michigan.

Muri K. Aken of Jackson, nominee for auditor general, was associated with Sigler in the investigation of the Hooper murder and the trial of Frank D. McKay and others, who were acquitted of conspiracy charges. Eugene F. Black, a Port Huron lawyer and veteran of World War II, was nominated for attorney general in place of John R. Dethmers, incumbent, who also had clashed with Sigler in the heat of the primary campaign.

The Republican ticket is a formidable one. Sigler has demonstrated he can wage a good campaign, and he will be aided by Dr. Eugene Keyes, a good vote getter, who returned to Michigan politics this year by virtue of his successful primary campaign for the lieutenant-governorship.

Research in Ore

EXTENSIVE research on low grade iron ore raises hopes that the ore mining industry in Michigan's Upper Peninsula will not vanish with the depletion of the deposits of high grade ore.

Like the Mesabi Range, where scientists have been working on a project to discover new processes for the use of low grade ore, the iron mining ranges in the Upper Peninsula are beginning to see the end of high grade deposits. But the supply of low grade ore is vast, covering many billions of tons. Up to now no effort has been made to mine this ore because the cost of production cannot compete with the cost of producing iron from high grade ore.

New processes for utilizing low grade ore offer great possibilities for tapping a natural resource that has been left untouched for generations. Developments thus far indicate that low grade ores from Michigan and Minnesota can compete in price with foreign direct shipping ores.

Reserves of high grade ore still remaining are estimated to last about 20 years. However, the nation cannot afford to use up all of this supply before tapping the immense deposits of low grade ore. National defense alone would dictate the necessity of retaining an ample supply of high grade ore in the event of another war.

The preservation of the iron mining industry is the Upper Peninsula for many years to come is bound up in the research program now under way. Escanaba's position as an ore shipping port is likewise dependent upon the success of the research program.

Developments to date show rather conclusively that there is ample cause for optimism.

Bears' Turn Will Come

BEARISH growings are being heard here and there in the present inflated stock and commodities markets, and deflation may not be so far away as many people think.

The fact is, that recurring strikes and consequent merchandise price boosts can hasten the day of deflation. Recently an eastern steel man ventured the opinion right out loud, that within six months after the steel mills get into full operation steel backlogs will be wiped out and a highly competitive market will develop. That's how fast supply can catch up with demand in this country if given a fair chance.

There is a highly ballyhooed consumer demand, but investigation into details shows that thousands of consumers are duplicating and triplicating their orders, in the hope that their real needs will be supplied soon. Inflated demands will collapse when goods start flowing, say the price authorities, and further increased prices will provoke many buyers' strikes.

Men who were in business a quarter of a century ago will not soon forget the red-hot buyer's strikes of 1920. All over the country buyers, largely womenfolk, made up their minds to get along for a while on the bare necessities, buying nothing that they didn't absolutely have to have. The results were disastrous to big stocks in many lines, accumulated with the idea of potential fat profits.

A short buyers' strike might be a good thing. A long one would end Washington's worries about the boom and inflation. For thousands of dealers it would be no longer a boom, but a bust. The American dollar may be worth something before very long, after all.

Ghost Town Revives

HOW Cheboygan, one-time booming lumbering town of Northern Michigan, literally pulled itself up by its own bootstraps to become a booming postwar community is the subject of an interesting article by Harold Titus in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

With the decline of lumbering, Cheboygan citizens consoled themselves by pointing to its mountainous pile of sawdust to prove that their home town was really something in its palmy days. Its young people and other residents began moving to Detroit and other industrial centers during the post-depression period and early part of the war, for Cheboygan was left with only sandy soil farming, commercial fishing and the tourist business as its sources of employment.

Some four or five thousand citizens, who had their roots firmly imbedded in Cheboygan, remained to struggle for a livelihood. Then, World War II came and presented Cheboygan with opportunities which its citizens did not fail to grasp. Vacant buildings were converted into machine shops to make parts for tanks, airplanes and other armament manufactured in Detroit and elsewhere. Some small manufacturers moved from the crowded industrial centers to take advantage of ideal working and living conditions in Cheboygan.

It's the story of industrial decentralization, which has been resumed with increased vigor within the last few years and transforming so-called ghost towns and backward hamlets into thriving, happy communities. Actually, Escanaba has done the same thing, but the story probably is not as absorbing because our fair city never declined as low as Cheboygan. Escanaba has taken advantage of the trend toward industrial decentralization to the limit of its possibilities. If industrial buildings were available, more factories likely could be attracted here.

Checking Up On Rep. May

THE testimony before the senate war investigating committee that Chairman May, of the house military affairs committee, used his political influence in behalf of an industrial combine that heaped huge war profits is quite a revelation to a nation that sacrificed much for victory in the recent war.

Drew Pearson, Washington columnist, added some more data on Chairman May's wartime activities in behalf of the Erie Basin Metal Products company in the Merry-Go-Round column published in Saturday's issue of the Daily Press. Pearson revealed that the company never existed prior to the war and was organized by characters with a none-too-savory background.

Evidence submitted thus far in regard to Rep. May's wartime activities as chairman of the House military affairs committee indicates the need for some deeper probing of his affairs. Perhaps the justice department may also be interested in the wartime activities of Congressman May.

The taxpayers of America like to think that their hired hands are working in their interests, and not trying to figure out schemes to line the pockets of shady characters at public expense.

Washington—All over the country there will be gloom at the outcome of Mississippi's election. The man Bilbo is back for another six years after a primary campaign of exceptional demagoguery on the explosive theme of white supremacy.

One of Bilbo's chief assets was the series of attacks directed at him from outside the state. He told Mississippians time after time that the North was trying to dictate who should be senator of the sovereign State of Mississippi.

To prove his case, he waved editions of national magazines carrying articles showing Bilbo's record. His listeners were not likely to read such articles. But they understood that outsiders were trying to interfere with their democratic rights. The carpet-bag threat is still a bitter memory in the deep South.

—PROMISED SUBSIDIES—

The other string that Bilbo twanged was the promise of federal benefits—subsidies for the farmers, bonuses for the veterans and so on down the line. Though the carpet-bag rule ended many years ago, the truth is that Mississippi is an economic colony of the North, dependent on the favors of either big business or big government, demagogues like Bilbo hold out the promise of crumbs from Washington or New York. Such demagogues are themselves the end product of a system of colonial dependence.

In Georgia, an active and effective revolt is aimed at this system. Governor Ellis Arnall, who has made himself the leader of the new South, wants to give his region an equal chance to develop industry and end the colonialism which decrees the South shall be a producer of raw materials. That is the meaning of Arnall's suit in the supreme court to compel an equalization of railroad freight rates.

At the same time, Arnall is fighting such ugly manifestations of frustration and fear as the Ku Klux Klan. Besides being an enormously shrewd politician—which you have to be in the South, where politics is really competitive—Arnall has courage and imagination.

—REVOLT IN DIXIE—

This may be wishful thinking, but it's just possible that Bilbo's narrow victory over the field in Mississippi is the last gasp of old-fashioned Bourbonism in the South. The stirrings of something like a revolution can be heard from below the Mason-Dixon line.

At any rate, in one department of southern life a big change is taking place. Negroes are voting in Democratic primaries in state after state. In some states it has given rise to threats and intimidation but elsewhere it appears to be accepted. In Texas the Progressive Voters League of Dallas reports that out of 600,000 Negroes in the state, 150,000 have paid the poll tax, and 50,000 are exempt, so that perhaps as many as a third will vote in the primary on July 27. Moreover, candidates are appealing for the Negro as they would for white votes.

Many southern newspapers are leading the way in a sane attitude toward this issue. Some editors have pointed out that unless they are forced into a rigid racial bloc, Negro voters are likely to split along the same lines as white voters. This was put very well by the Columbia Record of Columbia, South Carolina, a state, incidentally, which has taken special steps to circumvent the 15th amendment:

"The Negroes are no more united than the whites. They have different and divergent views. Normally some of them would vote for one candidate and some for another, as the experience of North Carolina, Virginia and other states in which they already vote proves."

—BILBO ATTACKED FEPC—

Perhaps the real test has not yet come. We are still in a period of prosperity, or comparative prosperity. In a slump, with fierce competition for jobs, racial hatreds might flame over the issue of equality at the poll.

Bilbo used the fair employment practices committee as a political punching bag in his campaign. He promised to filibuster against an FEPC law. This coincided with release of the Fair Employment Committee's final report from Chairman Malcolm Ross containing this significant statement:

"Studies made by and for the committee since V-J Day show that the wartime gains of Negro, Mexican-American and Jewish workers are being dissipated through an unchecked revival of discriminatory practices. The future status of minority group workers depends, the committee believes, on the course of action to be taken by Congress relative to passage of Federal Fair Employment legislation."

To the demagogue from Mississippi with a brass voice, that is a challenge. Six more years of Bilbo is an affliction no optimism for the future can gloss over.

German word "strafe." It should never be pronounced "strail," to rhyme with "waif."

H. S. Answer: We cannot consider our word strafe to be German. The German word, pronounced SHTRAH-fuh, means "punish," and American and British soldiers picked it up during World War I from the German saying "Gott strafe England."

Strafe was misinterpreted as meaning "bombard with shell fire," and the word entered English with that meaning. At first it was pronounced "strahf" or "straff."

During World War II, however, the word was revived by our Air Forces and was given an entirely new meaning: "To raze (any target) with machine gun fire from a low-flying airplane."

The pronunciation changed again and became: straff.

Thus we have a new and highly useful word which has no connection with the German strafe except for the spelling.

English is like that.

Good Morning!

ON THE ROAD—Persons who spent their Fourth of July holiday traveling, as we did, were probably surprised at the volume of traffic on the highways. At the Straits of Mackinac, where state ferries were "running wild" in an effort to keep up with tourist traffic, it is believed that an all-time high in the number of cars carried in a 24-hour period was being set.

Overnight cabin owners were reaping a long-awaited reward, with every cabin filled and motorists being turned away.

Coming back to Escanaba from St. Ignace Thursday night was like driving on one long main street—14 miles long and the main tourist route in the Upper Peninsula. This Highway US-2, besides being a principal trunkline is also one of the most scenic in Michigan, and is rapidly being built up with tourist cabins.

From a casual observation it would seem that Illinois folks are lured to the Upper Peninsula by the good highways that will take them on a long but pleasant tour around Lake Michigan, with the opportunity to stop here and there when fancy strikes. For millions in the cities, this Fourth of July holiday extends through the weekend, and will probably mark the peak tourist traffic of the year in Northern Michigan.

NO VACANCIES—As evening advanced the rush for overnight cabins began. Even at what might be considered an early hour, many of the best cabins had been taken and large "no vacancies" signs were posted along the highway so the tourist would not have to slow down in his dash for a place to sleep. Where there were no signs, the cars turned in and out again with regularity—going farther and later into the night, stopping at less attractive places as they became more desperate. It was no longer a question of pick and choose. They would finally take what they could get, even if it were a tiny cabin without sanitary facilities, set down in a cedar swamp.

FEW COMPLAINTS—Operators of tourist facilities say that travelers are prepared to pay any reasonable price for overnight accommodations. There is little quibbling over rates at $1.50 per night will now bring $2 and $3 without complaint from the tourist.

At the same time, the 1946 tourist does expect better accommodations than he did a few years ago. He is willing to pay more if he can have a clean and reasonably comfortable cabin with a good bed. He does prefer the newer-looking places, well-maintained and with attractive surroundings.

GOOD MANNERS—The operator of the tourist cabin business has his troubles, and he will tell you about them if you are a sympathetic type.

His biggest problem is to keep his cabins furnished with cutlery, cooking utensils, linens and other bedding, for which some tourists apparently have a particular fondness. The annual cost of replacing these items as they are carried off by tourists runs into considerable money.

"I used to have some pretty good cutlery in my cabins," said one tourist cabin operator. "It was all carried away a little at a time and I finally supplied them with some of the cheapest dime store stuff. Even this has disappeared."

Tourists who complain about the quality of the service they receive at their overnight cabin might take this into consideration and take those spoons out of their pockets before they leave.

THE OTHER SIDE—There are a few tourist cabin owners, however, who operate their business on the principle of "get them now because they will never come back this way." It is this type of so-called "business man" who charges the highest price for the poorest service. The beds are old, the mattresses lumpy, and the tourists—wary after a day of traveling—must spend his night keeping his backbones away from the tickle of escaping bed springs.

It is this type of tourist cabin operator who can give the whole Upper Peninsula tourist business a bad name. He is a price-gouger. During the summer tourist rush when accommodations are at a premium he boosts his rentals to the highest figure the traffic will bear, hustles his tenants out at an early hour so the cabin can be quickly filled again for another 24-hour period.

IT WILL COME—The time must come when in the protection of the tourist industry in the Upper Peninsula a set of standards will be established. Banning together, the operators of tourist facilities will adopt a fair and

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—It didn't get into the newspapers, but President Truman attended an interesting private dinner party the other night—a birthday party in honor of his new secretary of the treasury, John Snyder.

John was fifty years old, and his new assistant, Detroit's affable Republican Arthur Gardner, gave him a party. Vivacious Mrs. Gardner was a little nonplused when she heard that the President of the United States was coming.

"Now we've got to have a lot of protocol," she half-protested.

Also, she hadn't counted on the secret service. They came a day early and insisted on inspecting every corner of the Gardner home and garden. Also, they opened up the house next door belonging to Prince Pigmentelli, who was away for the summer, and the house of Broker George Garrett, in order to make sure no one was lurking inside.

Delightful Mrs. Gardner, however, is a resourceful lady—in more ways than one. Her father drew up the corporation papers for Henry Ford when Ford first started making autos, and was paid in then worthless Ford stock. Mrs. Gardner's father was also smart enough to hang on to the stock.

Eighteen guests attended the dinner, including Senator Barkley, who, because of his wife's illness, seldom goes out to dinner. However, he made an exception in this case and was the first to arrive.

—THIRSTY SENATOR—

Wary after a hectic day of trying to pilot price control through the senate, Barkley suggested a drink. Polite host Gardner demurred. He suggested they should not drink before the arrival of the President of the United States.

"I'll be damned if I'll wait for him!" replied Truman's best friend in the senate. "I've ranked him for years, and I'm not going to be outranked when it comes to a drink now."

The senator from Kentucky got his Bourbon.

Shortly thereafter, the President arrived. Host Gardner promptly shoved his highball behind a potted palm. Barkley didn't.

"They tried to prevent me from having this drink," he remarked to the President. "But I told them I had ranked you for so many years I wasn't going to wait for you now."

Smiling, Mr. Truman agreed. Other guests included General and Mrs. Ira Eaker, second highest ranking officer of the Air Forces, General and Mrs. Hoyt Vandenberg, nephew of the senator from Michigan and top intelligence man for the White House; Mrs. Stuart Symington, wife of the Assistant Secretary of War and the daughter of GOP Congressman Jim Wadsworth; Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Ed Foley and wife; Mrs. A. Mitchell Palmer, widow of Woodrow Wilson's attorney general; Arthur Krock of the New York Times, chief newspaper defendant of John Snyder; Senate Secretary Leslie Biffle and wife, close friends of the President and from Snyder's home state—Arkansas; and Chuck Fisher, manufacturer of Fisher auto bodies, who served with Snyder on the RFC.

—PRESIDENTIAL TOASTS—

Mrs. Truman was absent in Missouri. The British Ambassador, only other invited guest, was also absent because of a previous engagement, but sent his personal Scotch bagpipes along with his Scotsman. And at an approximate moment, the dining-room doors were thrown open and in came the pipe, along with bagpipes and birthday cake.

Happy John Snyder cut his cake, passed the first piece to his good friend, Harry Truman.

Toasts followed. Lifting his champagne, the new secretary of the treasury toasted "friendship."

"Is that why you're here, John?" jibed impish Mrs. Palmer, doubtless referring to the way Truman rewards his friends.

Senator Barkley toasted the many years he and Truman had spent together.

Later, the conversation got around to Comptroller General Lindsay Warren's sensational charges that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had not kept proper books.

"When is the senate going to investigate you, John?" Senator Barkley asked the former chief of the RFC. "I don't want to miss it."

"I'm going to testify right after Jesse Jones," shot back Snyder.

The President said very little. He seemed worried, grim, and unhappy. His chief remark of the evening came when Barkley started to tell a story.

"I've heard that one before," dryly remarked the President of the United States. It was midnight when the President went home. At 3 a. m., 50-year-old John Snyder departed to catch a few hours sleep before beginning the day's work as secretary of the treasury.

Business Executive Clicks As Tough "Whodunit" Author

BY WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

New York, July 6 (AP)—"Tex" Roden is a man with a dual personality—and both have rung the bell on the cash register of success.

The business world knows Henry Wisdom Roden as a hard-nosed executive who has made his mark in the printing, radio, drug supplies, and food and cosmetic industries. Today he is a vice president of American Home Products Corporation and head of nine subsidiary concerns.

Detective story fans take a different slant on him, having gobbled up more than a million copies of the books he has pounded out in odd moments since 1944 when, as an avid student of the "Whodunit" school, he became bored with current shames and decided to do something about it.

When he's asked about this second role he looks out the window, confides he'd like to spend a lot more time dreaming up the formulas of tough-guy investigators, beautiful dames and fast-moving plots which have made his books click, and murmurs: "Maybe I will come day."

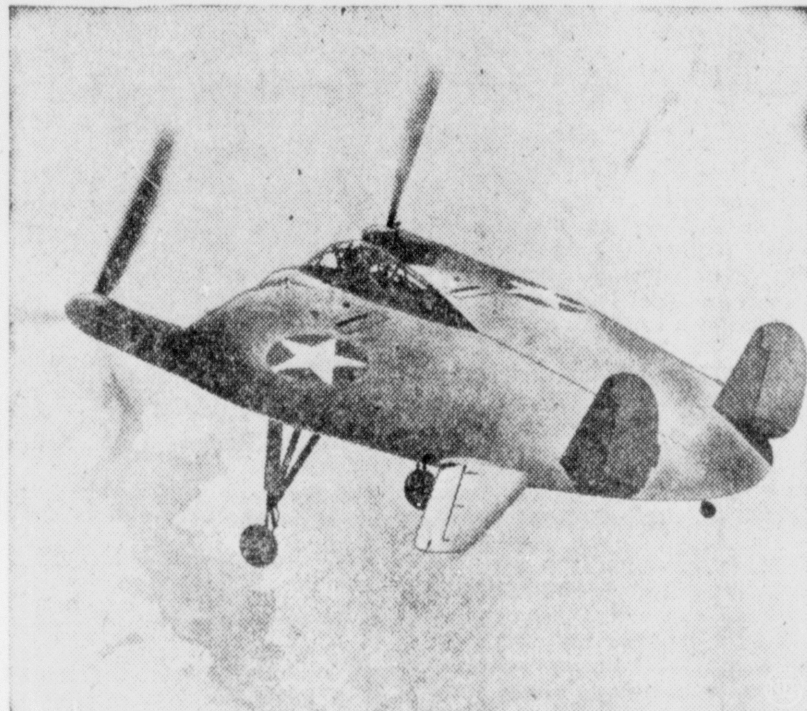

"I've got a new idea right now that's driving me nuts," he adds, and that sentence could be a summary of his writing career. Story ideas have a way of popping into his head and, says Roden, when they keep hammering away at him he puts them down on paper.

Roden, a 50-year-old stocky son of Dallas, Tex., studied at Cornell University and was a naval aviator in World War I. He is no admirer of Sherlock Holmes and what he calls "the if I had but known" brand of fiction detective. He goes for the outspoken, hard-clugging gents made popular by Hammett - Gardner - Chandler School of Writers.

"Along in 1942 and '43 there began to be a dearth of this type of writing, and the available supply just bored me," says Roden, who estimates that he's read a mystery a week for 10 years. "So I thought I would see if I could write one."

It was his first whack at any type of writing other than letters. With his wife reading each chapter as he finished it, he scribbled the story in longhand. When it was finished, he titled it "You Only Hang Once," and sent it to

The Navy has announced successful experimental flights of a radically new fighter plane, shaped like a pancake, able to hover at almost standstill speed or whiz along at from 425 to 500 miles per hour. It's the XF5U-1, built by Chance Vought Aircraft at Bridgeport, Conn. The photo above shows flight of the "Bug," an experimental model, with 75-horsepower engines. The actual "Pancake" will have two R-2000-2 engines, either of which can drive both propellers in case one engine fails.

Rio Grande Southern's Galloping Goose Nears End Of Rockies Trail

BY BEN FUNK

Durango, Colo., July 6 (AP)—The "Galloping Goose" of the Rio Grande Southern Railroad, one of the nation's last narrow gauge lines, soon may waddle for the last time through the southwestern Colorado Rockies.

The postoffice department clipped the wings of the "Goose" with an announcement that it will not renew the railroad's mail contract. Loss of the contract, which brought Rio Grande Southern $40,000 a year, would leave no alternative "but to start proceedings for abandonment," said Cass Herrington, Denver Attorney and receiver for the road.

A foldup by Rio Grande Southern would close a unique chapter in Colorado railroad history. It is called the "Galloping Goose" line because of four peculiar vehicles, which actually were 1930 model Pierce-Arrow tourist autos, with rail wheels substituted and box-car structures tacked on the rear. These "Geese" carried the mail, and were equipped to haul six to eight passengers and up to 10,000 pounds of freight.

Rio Grande Southern also has six 50-year-old steam locomotives and some 60 ancient freight and gondola cars.

A "Galloping Goose" rambles 164 miles, crossing two of southwest Colorado's highest mountain ranges—the San Miguel and Uncompaghres—to reach a terminal point 60 miles away. It is a hazardous trip over 14,000-foot peaks, beside mountain torrents, along shaky wooden trestles that give the passengers goose pimples as they look 1,500 feet straight down to rocky canyon floors.

Normally, a "Goose" makes the trip in eight hours, 53 minutes, barring derailments, rock slides, snow slides and track washouts. Built in 1892, the Southern had a record for safety but it went into receivership in 1927. For 14 more years it gasped along between Durango and Ridgway, hauling some gold, cattle, lumber, beans, mail and a few passengers.

Then, in 1941, the government gave the road respite with a $65,000 loan. A year later the atomic bomb was in the making and there was need for vanadium. The Southern hauled 22,000 tons of it in 1942, 1943 and 1944—and got another $60,000 from the government.

Five counties deferred taxes as an additional aid and shippers accepted a temporary increase in rates. But with the return of peace the honeymoon was over. Herrington said loss of the mail contract would be the knockout punch.

The Postoffice Department said the Southern, under special arrangements, had been getting about $40,000 a year for carrying the mails when normal rates would call for only about $10,600. The Department said better service could be provided by other means.

Rouce Says Next 10 Years Critical For Iron Mining

Iron River—The next 10 years will be critical ones for iron country because they will determine whether the iron mining industry of northwest Michigan will die in a decade with present reserves or continue to flourish for years through the extension of known reserves of ore in the ground.

This sober warning was sounded Friday by Stephen Royce, Crystal Falls mining engineer and geologist associated for 34 years with mining exploration in this region. He spoke at a forum of mine operators, state tax commission authorities and local citizens at the courthouse, convened by Rep. Carl G. Lindquist for consideration of a possible encouragement of mineral exploration through tax relief.

"The ghost town is not a figment of the prospect for us," Royce admonished. "Mines do not go on indefinitely. A few years ago, the Chapin mine at Iron Mountain, then largest underground iron mine in the world, was complemented regarded as a permanent operation. Today, the Chapin is idle and forgotten, and the big Penn mines at Vulcan are closed."

HOW MUCH DO YOU EARN NOW?

$42 Weekly Wage In '39 Equivalent To $56 At Present

By PETER EDSON

Washington, (NEA)—Those who remain of the New Deal politicians and the Progressive Republicans are now worried because the people seem to be too prosperous. The line is that when voters are well off financially, they tend to go conservative.

Put it the other way around. Voters are not interested in progressive movements or liberal reforms when they have money in their pockets and food in their bellies. The great reform movements always seem to follow depressions, when things have gone wrong.

If these are political truths, the amount of money in the pay envelope becomes an important factor in the November elections. They're four months away. That's not very long, but a lot of things can happen in the meantime.

Bureau of Labor Statistics figures just released put the average earnings of the nearly 12 million factory workers in the U. S. for May at $1.07 per hour for a 40-hour week. That's two cents higher in January, 1945, in spite of the fact that most of the war production overtime at premium rates has now been cut off.

It sounds like a lot of money. In terms of weekly earnings, the U. S. average for factory workers for May is given as $42.67. Compare that with the average weekly earnings of $35.25 in 1939. Compare it with the $25.03 average weekly earnings in 1929, or with the $22.08 of 1919.

Pay Almost Doubled
Factory earnings have practically doubled in the 25 years since the end of World War I. The all-time peak in weekly earnings was the January, 1945 average of $47.40.

This $1.07 an hour, $42.67 a week, isn't the top either. Recent increases given coal miners and workers in a few other basic industries don't show in these figures. Averages for June and July will be higher.

Radicalism can't flourish on earnings like that. No wonder the liberals are politically worried, and no wonder the conservatives are cocky.

If you look ahead a little, however, there's another angle to this thing which can't be ignored. Prosperity can't be measured just by the number of dollars you have to jingle in your pocket, purse, or piggy-bank. It's what they'll buy that counts. So take a good look in terms of the purchasing power of today's dollar, as compared with that in past years, and see where you come out.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the goods and services that $42.67 will buy today could have been bought for $23.86 in 1939. Or put it the other way around. It takes $56.35 today to

GOOD RECORDS ARE MEANT TO BE BEATEN

★ The infantile death rate in the United States is very low. From 1934 to 1936 we ranked seventh in the world, led only by New Zealand, Holland, Australia, Norway, Switzerland, and Sweden.

Yet 70,000 infants die annually in the first month of life, and 53,000 more from the second to the twelfth month. How many of these precious infants might have lived had their mothers had adequate prenatal care under the direction of a competent physician?

It is now up to the mothers to take advantage of the knowledge and skill of the physician during the trying months of pregnancy. We are ready to supply the needed dietary supplements and other medication ordered by your physician.

buy what $42.67 would have bought in 1939.

In other words, a $23 wage in 1939 was just as good as a $42 wage in 1946, and a $56 wage today is no better than a $42 wage in 1939.

Dollar's Value Has Fallen
The point of this is that the purchasing power of the dollar was high in 1939—higher than in any recent year save 1932—for those people who had money to spend.

If a family of four people spent $40 on food in 1939, today that family would have to spend $60 on food. For every $12 spent on clothing in 1939, $18.50 would have to be spent today.

Here is a simple BLS table that anyone can apply to his own income to show him where he stands in terms of today's purchasing power:

For every $10 spent on food in 1939, about $15 has to be spent today.

For every $10 spent for clothes in 1939, $15.50 has to be spent today.

For every $10 spent for furnishings in 1939, $15.50 has to be spent today.

For every $10 spent for fuel and light in 1939, $11.14 has to be spent today.

For every $10 spent for rent in 1939, $10.39 has to be spent today.

What this adds up to is that for every $50 spent on these main cost-of-living items in 1939, $67.07 has to be spent today.

For the politician, the importance of these figures becomes apparent when they are taken into consideration along with what may happen to price levels between now and election.

Now that OPA price controls have been removed, sharp increases in the cost of living are unavoidable. These increases are political dynamite. What seems now to be a lot of dollars in the pay envelope will become very few dollars in purchasing power. And today's prosperity—which isn't prosperity in terms of 1939 purchasing power—will be quickly transformed into depression conditions that could easily reverse the present political trend.

CHECK BOATS FOR SAFETY

Coast Guard Auxiliary
To Make Courtesy
Inspections

Specially trained members of the U. S. C. G. Auxiliary are being utilized in a courtesy program of advisory pleasure boat inspection, announced by Admiral Farley, Commandant, USCG. These men, who have several years of training in boating handling, are well qualified by experience to advise boat owners not only what equipment is required by law but also what additional equipment it is well to have for safe operation of pleasure boats.

Yacht clubs and other interested boating groups or individuals may arrange for such courtesy inspections by contacting local U. S. C. G. Auxiliary Flotilla Commanders. In Escanaba, boat owners may make appointments for inspections either with Captain Dan Garrett of the Escanaba Coast Guard at the lighthouse or with the harbor master at the yacht harbor. (Boat owners unable to make such contacts in their home localities may write the District Director of the Auxiliary at 9th Coast Guard District Headquarters, Keith Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio.)

Escanaba officers and inspectors are: Stuart Fry, commander; John Hebert, vice-commander; John Erickson, training officer and Lawrence Beauchamp, inspector.

The Coast Guard Auxiliary is an organization of pleasure boat owners interested in bettering the knowledge of all boat owners in safe operation of their craft and in assisting the Coast Guard in the performance of their duties in time of emergency. The Auxiliary, serving as members of the Coast Guard Reserve (temporary), set an enviable record by the work they did in assisting the military services during the war in the Port Security Program.

This courtesy inspection is planned to accomplish three purposes: (a) To determine if the owner is or is not complying with required laws and to advise him accordingly.

(b) To advise the owner as to recommended equipment and maintenance not required by law, but which are designed to increase safety in boat operation.

(c) To supply information concerning the Coast Guard and the Coast Guard Auxiliary, the facilities each have to offer in the area, and the educational and practical value that membership in the Auxiliary has for the motorboat owner.

It is pointed out that these inspections will be made while the motorboats are alongside the dock or at anchor, unless otherwise requested by the owner. Since the intent of the Auxiliary Act forbids members of the Auxiliary to exercise police duties of the Coast Guard, no official report of violations will be made. It should, therefore, be obvious to everyone connected with the project, and especially the motorboat owner, that the inspection is made as a courtesy and is for the sole purpose of assisting and advising in the interest of saving life and property.

Auxiliarists who perform this duty are especially selected for their tact, knowledge of the motorboat laws and equipment. Those selected for the work are carefully instructed as to proper boarding methods and procedures. A regular commissioned officer checks and approves those Auxiliarists chosen for this important duty.

Hunting And Fishing

By Sid Gordon

THE BLACK BASS

There really is no "open season" for black bass which can be arrived at with surety. The best the lake states can do is to arrive at the nearest average date when they feel that most black bass will be off the spawning beds. This leaves the fishing squarely up to all good fishermen.

No good fisherman will deliberately kill a fish on its spawning bed but many of us make mistakes. In some lakes I have seen black bass spawn as early as June 1. In others I have seen them guarding their nests on the Fourth of July.

It is all a matter of temperature, for bass eggs will not hatch until the water gets about 60 degrees F. or over. Some argue that it is all right to hook and keep the female bass for they have spawned and only the males guard the nest and the eggs.

While this may be true, how many fishermen can tell a female from a male? The best way to judge whether to take any bass from a lake is to study the shorelines of each lake. Bass spawn in water from two feet to five or six feet. Their nests can be seen most plainly.

If we find a number of nests being fanned and cared for along our reefs or shorelines, every bass caught should be released in that lake. The male bass is guarding from five to 10 thousand eggs and who would wish to destroy their chances of hatching into fry?

Walleyes, northern pike and muskies drop their eggs before the ice has left our waters, in many seasons. While they pay no further attention to them, the male bass guards the eggs in the nest he has built for the female bass to deposit them.

Those eggs would not hatch without his care. No one knows how many of the fry would live if he did not give them his attention for a few days after they had hatched from the eggs.

One of our best sources of knowledge as to "catching time" lies with our guides in the lake states. They know every lake in their area. They know those which warm up early and those which stay cold long past the "opening" season.

If you do not have a guide, the decent thing to do is to ask local guides which lakes you should fish for bass, before July 1. The resort owner knows his lakes too and if one cannot ask a guide he should ask the resort owner.

In a later article we shall discuss the lures and methods we use to take this fish, one of the grandest, sportiest fish of our fresh water—the black bass. No fish is more responsive to varied lures than are our small mouth and large mouth bass.

Black Bass Will Hit Anything
Black bass will hit almost anything from flies, spoons and plugs to worms, minnows and frogs. This may sound quite heartening to the beginner who intends fishing for our small or large mouth black bass. Alas, he must never get the impression that he can go into a tackle shop, select any one of the above items and be successful.

Those of us who like to think we are good bass fishermen never do any bragging about how good we are on strange waters. We know that there are few all-around rules which will work in every water. When we have become expert bass fishermen on a river near home, we have every confidence in our ability to take fish there.

Almost any good fly tied to a six-foot leader, size six, four or two hook, will take those small mouth bass if it is fished wet and we keep far enough away, 35 to 50 feet, from our quarry. But there are other waters and on these waters, our flies are useless.

Such waters may be deep clear lakes with rocky shorelines or dropoffs at weed beds. In the evening and shortly before and after dawn in the morning the bass may be feeding on the surface. Then a floating plug, or a plug which makes a great commotion just under and atop the surface, may take those fish when they pay no attention to a bass bug or a wet fly.

Every good bass fisherman has fished deep, clear waters where the fish seldom take a plug or fly. They will not come up to hit them no matter how expert we are in our casting. In such waters the still fisherman with his gob of worms, or a well hooked minnow is the "expert" for he places his bait right before the noses of the deep lying fish.

The only rules in small or large mouth bass fishing for a beginner in lake fishing can be covered thusly: Fish your surface plugs, bass bugs and flies just before and after daylight. Fish them again at twilight and on through the evening, but when the fish quit hitting after the sun is up, change your tactics.

Go after them then with underwater plugs until those plugs no longer produce, in other words until you see that they are failures. Then, through the rest of the day hunt up the reefs and the weed beds and work the waters with a June bug spinner or a size 4 single or double bladed spinner to which is attached a size one hook with a gob of worms.

Only in this manner will a few days fishing tell you whether those waters are still fishing bass

Aged Local Woman Miss E. Gorbitt, Is Taken By Death

Miss Elizabeth Gorbitt, 89, died Friday night at 9:45 o'clock at St. Francis hospital after a long illness.

A resident of Escanaba for the past 70 years, Miss Gorbitt was one of the oldest members of St. Stephen's Episcopal church here. She had made her home here for a number of years with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bruce, 1125 South 11th avenue.

She was born Feb. 12, 1857 in Champlain, New York.

waters or bass waters which will respond to surface baits or flies. No fisherman has a right to say "there are no bass in this lake" until he has tried every method to solve the feeding habits of the fish in that particular body of water.

Several nieces and cousins survive.

The body is being prepared for burial at the Boyce funeral home and will lie in state at St. Stephen's church at one o'clock Monday afternoon. Funeral services will be conducted at the church at 1:30 o'clock with Rev. J. G. Ward officiating. Burial will be made in the family lot in Lakeview cemetery.

Health Department Makes Wood Tick Study In U.P.

Alexander MacVittie, representative of the Michigan department of health, is in the Upper Peninsula making a survey to determine the extent of wood tick infestation, and to collect live ticks from different areas for study in the department laboratory.

MacVittie was in Escanaba Friday and left a number of glass vials at the conservation department headquarters into which conservation officers will place the ticks they collect in the Delta-Marquette-Alger county area. The conservation department is cooperating in the collection of the ticks, but the health department will correlate and complete the study.

Conservation officers here were told by MacVittie that he was on his way to the western section of the Upper Peninsula, and would return here within two weeks to pick up the vials of ticks which will be collected in his absence. MacVittie is expected to visit each conservation headquarters in the U. P. in his survey and collection of ticks.

According to MacVittie there has not as yet been a definite determination of the type of wood tick prevalent in many sections of Northern Michigan. Altogether there are about 70 species of ticks, of which a dozen are on record as attacking man.

From preliminary studies made last year it is believed the tick found in this area is the Eastern Dog Tick, a known vector of Rocky Mountain spotted fever. No known cases of spotted fever, of which there were more than 400 cases in the United States last year, have been recorded in Michigan and five other states.

Besides spotted fever, the bite of an infected tick can also cause tularemia and tick paralysis. The ticks should be removed as soon as they are discovered on the body. Although they may not cause any serious consequences, if the tick is permitted to remain a painful and itching wound may result.

The number of ticks in certain sections of the Upper Peninsula have been reported as increasing in the past several years, giving rise to a considerable amount of annoyance to persons who frequent the out-of-doors. Howard Eldred, Escanaba, game area manager, earlier this year reported that Dickinson county seemed to be more heavily infested and that no increase was noted in Menominee and Delta counties.

Previously it was supposed that ticks were not present in the eastern Upper Peninsula, but MacVittie told conservation officers that they have been reported from Newberry. Other reports of ticks came from Shingleton, where they were previously unknown.

It has been emphasized that there is no cause for alarm because of the presence of wood ticks in an area. Persons would be able to recognize the ticks, and

Auto Club Would Bar 14-Year-Olds From Driving Cars

By F. GLEN ENGLE

Detroit, July 6.—(AP)—For the first time in history a Detroit traffic court last week convicted a 14-year-old driver of a felony. The conviction raised this question among law enforcement officials and agencies concerned with safety of the highways:

Was the case better handled in a court dealing with adults or could more good have been done by keeping it in probate court?

The Automobile Club of Michigan, currently engaged in a post-war safety campaign, says the latter course would have been preferable.

Why? Because a probate court makes a practice of summoning a juvenile offender's parents into consultation, to make certain at least they know about the alleged offense, which in the aforementioned case was negligent homicide. As a result, the Auto Club argues, such a court's punishment has a more lasting effect.

The club recently launched a drive to have the minimum age for operation of a motor vehicle raised from 14 to 16 years, with certain exceptions for farm youths.

Immediate reaction from law enforcement agencies and in newspaper editorials was very favorable, the club said. It added that most police officials favor a further increase to 17 years in the minimum driving age because all of age operators then could be hailed directly into a court for adults to face a charge.

The Auto club, which has played an important part in writing vehicle operation laws in the past, plans to carry the age-up proposal before the state legislature early next year.

But with a finger pointed at a rapidly-increasing traffic accident rate in Michigan and a forecast of many more cars on the highways of the future, the club says other steps must be taken to reduce traffic hazards.

One of the most important of these, it says, is driver education. Another is uniform enforcement of the law throughout the state.

John W. Berglund Dies In Sweden

John W. Berglund, former editor and publisher of the Medborgaren, Swedish language newspaper published in Escanaba years ago, died on May 29 at his home in Helsingborg, Sweden. He was 81 years old.

News of his death was received here by an old friend, Henry Carlson, 606 South 10th street. Mr. Berglund was a member of the North Star lodge of Escanaba since 1915.

From Escanaba, Mr. Berglund moved to California, where he was engaged in newspaper work and the writing of books. A lover of nature, he also had considerable talent as a landscape artist.

Mr. Berglund moved to Sweden about ten years ago, but he retained his American citizenship. He was prevented from returning to America by the outbreak of the World War. His widow survives.

On The Level? Not Any More

To Arthur Nelson of the Michigan hotel things are not on the level any more. They have been off level, in fact, ever since someone stole his level, he informed Escanaba police yesterday.

The level is four feet long and was used by Nelson in his construction work. The level (which he doesn't have anymore) was not only expensive, it was practically irreplaceable and Nelson is becoming desperate.

It was a Mayes level, and was last seen on a construction job at the Sorenson gas station. The police are doing their level best to find the culprit.

LOCAL BAKERS GO ON STRIKE

Employees Of Several
Escanaba Plants
Quit

Bakers employed by three leading Escanaba plants, Hoyler & Baur, Hoyler Baking Company and Delta Baking company went on strike last night following a meeting at which one of the bakery operators said the owners refused a demand for a flat 18½ cents an hour increase in wages.

Representatives of the bakers said that the operators had repeatedly declared in earlier meetings that all issues involved would be settled satisfactorily but on Saturday night adjourned before differences could be mediated.

The employees and operators met with Arnold Alsten, local labor representative who said he was authorized to act for the bakers in calling the strike if the wage increase was not forthcoming.

A spokesman of the operators said that they could not pay the increase without raising bread prices which are being kept at OPA levels. He stated that bakery workers were receiving from $26 to $65 weekly and the hourly pay-bike was asked for all classifications of bakery help.

Little charmers curtsy to fashion in lady-like summer cotton dresses. Left, the full skirt of pink-checked gingham with its ruffled ric-rac trimmed suspenders is topped by a solid colored bodice. Frilly blouse is white cotton. Center, striped chambray ruffles over the shoulders give a pinafore look to this blue chambray with its full skirt and slightly gathered bodice. Right, linen-like fabric, sun fast and washable, makes a pretty yellow jumper. The blouse is banded with cross-stitching.

English Mother Of Quadruplets And Lover Reunited

New York (AP)—He saw the taxi coming and raced to meet it—and then, with a smothered sob, weary, joyful Norah Carpenter was reunited today with the red-haired American she loves. The New York Mirror described their meeting in a copyright story.

Tears welling in their eyes, 25-year-old Norah went into the arms of William (Red) Thompson of Pittsburgh. Around their feet clustered their three surviving quadruplets, Michael, Maureen and Madeline, now two years and four months old.

"My darling, I'm so happy to see you again!" Norah said. Red just said "hello." Then he knelt and greeted his three energetic youngsters.

Maureen looked at him squarely. "Daddy," she said. The reunion occurred in a little house in Elmhurst, Queens, near LaGuardia airport where Norah and the babies landed today after a flight from England.

Red said they would be married Tuesday in Pittsburgh, where his mother has set aside two rooms in her house for the young family, according to the Mirror. Thompson's former wife divorced him April 24.

35,000 Migrants Go To Australia

BY GORDAN A. TAIT

Sydney, July 6 (AP)—Building trade workers who can construct their own homes, and nurses to staff hospitals will be the vanguard of the 35,000 migrants who will be brought to Australia from Britain and the continent next year, according to present Australian government plans.

Immigration Minister Arthur A. Calwell has announced he will give first priority, among the 35,000 shipping passages for migrants expected to be available in 1947, to applicants experienced in the building trade.

The 35,000 figures is just half Australia's planned yearly intake of immigrants when the government's "Great Empty Spaces" is in operation. Then 70,000 immigrants are scheduled to come into Australia each year for the first few years, after which the number will be increased progressively.

The arrival of painters, plumbers, bricklayers, carpenters, electricians, and other tradesmen is expected to ease the acute housing shortage in Australia's big cities as well as providing homes for the new arrivals.

Nurses will also be given priority to help meet the deficiency of several thousand in Australia's needs.

Polar Defense Seen As No. 1 Problem In Next World War

San Francisco, (AP)—Polar defense will be the No. 1 problem in "the war we hope will never come," General H. H. Arnold, retired wartime commander of the Army Air Forces, told the Commonwealth Club.

"War-making nations are all north of 30 degrees latitude," Arnold said. "Study your globe and you will see the most direct routes are not across the Atlantic or Pacific, but through the Arctic."

"The United States is the most vulnerable of the Nations with new weapons employed along this route. Four hundred to 600 atomic bombs could about paralyze the United States," he declared.

their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Budd Harding, and their granddaughter, Bonnie Rae Jafolla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Jafolla, who were at Spread Eagle, had left the Ivar Harding residence at about 11:30 p. m. to ride to Spread Eagle.

AUTO OUTPUT TO INCREASE

2,200,000 Cars May Be Produced In Next
Six Months

BY DAVID J. WILKIE

Detroit (AP)—The motorcar industry may make twice as many cars and trucks during the next six months as it made in the half-year just ended.

That program would bring about 2,200,000 vehicles off the assembly lines between now and Dec. 31. It will not mean, however, that delays in retail deliveries are going to be cut down materially.

Retailers Pessimistic

Many retailers still are discouraging the placing of orders for 1946 models. In all but a few instances they already have sold more vehicles than they can hope to get from the factories between now and next spring when the second postwar models are expected to come out. Whether these will be called 1947 or 1948 models has not yet been disclosed.

In any event the prospects of the average individual for early delivery of a new car are just about as dubious as they were three and four months ago.

The somewhat more optimistic production prospects are based upon the easing of materials shortages that plagued the industry ever since the war's end, and the assumption that major labor disputes will not interfere with manufacturing operations to any great extent during the remainder of the year.

Copper Is Short

The shortage of seat cushion springs that interfered with car body output has improved materially; bumpers are in better supply and shipments of several other components have been stepped up. Still worrying the manufacturers is the supply of copper used in electrical equipment and radiator cores.

Serious also is the nut and bolt situation with production held back by strikes in several sources.

Nevertheless, the car builders have increased their schedules generally about 50 per cent for the three months immediately ahead on the assumption there will be sufficient copper, steel and other essential materials to meet that volume.

Protests Made By Cherry Growers On 15½c A Pound Price

Traverse City, (AP)—Cherry growers are protesting offers of 15 cents a pound made by canners who have been packing a short crop.

Several of the larger growers in the Grand Traverse region have contacted big city outlets and were advised that cherries at 15 cents a pound would be more expensive than pineapple.

They fear that if the 1946 pack is priced too high, there will be a carry over into 1947 and the money they will receive for this year's crop will have to make up for possible cuts in next year's return.

No Bread!

Without Raising Prices, We Are Unable To Meet Demands Of The Baker's Union.

At a meeting last night we offered our workers a raise. However, we cannot pay the full 18½c per hour raise demanded without increasing the price of bread. Therefore we are forced to discontinue baking for the time being.

ALGER VETS GET $1,100

First Veteran Trust Fund Allotment Is Received

Munising—Alger county has received the first allotment of $1,100 from the Michigan Veterans' Trust Fund, it was announced Saturday by County Treasurer Virginia Alexander.

The money is part of the $50,000 fund started some time ago for veterans of which $200,000 has been set aside for the Michigan Veterans' Trust Fund. The money is allocated each county by the state to meet emergency needs of veterans of World War II and their dependents.

Veterans apply to the board of trustees which has been set up as a combination for Alger and Schoolcraft counties. These two counties have been placed in District III.

The members of the district committee were named as follows: Everett Anderson, VFW, 125 North Houghton Ave., Manistique; Walter Nelson, representing Disabled American Veterans, 202 Chippewa Ave., Manistique; James H. Fyvie, Md., representing the American Legion, 210 Range street, Manistique.

Miss Alice Niemi, Garrett Stevenson Married Recently

At a quiet wedding ceremony solemnized in the First Presbyterian church of Munising at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Miss Alice Niemi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Niemi, became the bride of Garrett L. Stevenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stevenson. The double-ring ceremony was performed before an altar decorated with peonies and gladioli, by the Rev. Frederick Steen, pastor of the church. Music during the ceremony was provided by Mrs. Winnie Ryan, church organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dusty rose street-length dress with white accessories and carried a hand bouquet of carnations and baby breath. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom. Mrs. Harold Wirkku, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a dress of pink silk jersey with white accessories and carried a bouquet matching that of the bride. Murray Stevenson, brother of the groom, served as best man.

Mrs. William Niemi, mother of the bride, was attired in a blue and white dress and had a corsage of pink gladioli. Mrs. Guy Stevenson, mother of the groom, wore a gray and fuchsia jersey dress and had a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony members of the immediate families attended a wedding supper at the home of the bride. A three-tiered wedding cake, trimmed with pink roses, centered the table, which was decorated with carnations and larkspur.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson left on a wedding trip to the Copper Country. For her going-away outfit, the bride wore a black and white linen suit. Upon their return they will make their home at 115 Elm avenue.

The bride is a graduate of the Mather high school and of the Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette. She was a member of the Phi Kappa Nu sorority. For the past two years she has been a member of the faculty of the Traverse City schools.

The groom is also a graduate of the Mather high school and attended the University of Grand Rapids, and since his return from the armed forces last fall has been employed by the Peoples State Bank of Munising.

Out-of-town guests included Miss Iola Stevenson, of Milwaukee, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wirkku, of Hancock.

Chief Chase Urges Use Of Parking Lot

Munising—Business and professional men and women of Munising are urged by Chief of Police Frank Chase to use the city parking lot for long time parking of their automobiles, in order to lessen the parking problem in the business district.

The entrance to the car-park is from Lynn street and there is room for some 150 cars if parked orderly, he said.

Parallel parking is being used throughout the business district which is believed by Chief Chase to have helped the traffic problem over the Fourth of July. He reported yesterday it took more than an hour and a half to file cars out of the municipal park area after the fireworks show the night of the Fourth of July.

Pot Of Mulligan Stew Kills Hobo

Kalamazoo, Mich., (UP)—Amused, Neil Goinis watched as a group of hoboes argued over a pot of Mulligan stew.

The argument grew hotter. Suddenly, a hobo picked up the pot of steaming liquid and hurled it in the direction of another knight of the road.

The hobo ducked, but the 65-year-old Goinis didn't. The kettle struck him and covered him from head to foot with stew.

Hospitalized with third degree burns, he died today in Bronson hospital.

Fishing Improves

Warmer weather and more fishermen working the waters has resulted in increased take of fish and a jump in entries in the Daily Press Fishing Contest. The wall-eyes are still biting at Ford River, though it must be conceded that larger ones are being caught at other locations.

Most notable of the recent entries in the contest was a 20 1/2 pound northern pike caught at 6 a. m. on Independence Day by Elder Daniel T. Newman in Green Bay near his little brown church in the wildwood. Unless the "fishing preacher" has moved that means in or near Misery Bay.

Fishing in that area has been good with anglers catching walleyes and perch. Newman's big pike was 43 inches in length and 17 3/8 inches in girth. He uses only light tackle for his heavy catches. Last year his five largest northern pikes weighed 105 pounds. His favorite light tackle consists of a five foot Tru-Temper tubular rod, Pileuger Noby with all silver heavy devil.

Also on July Fourth, Omer La-Mourie of Manistique landed an eight pound walleye while fishing with mud minnows in Indian Lake. The fish was 28 inches in length and 14 1/2 inches in girth.

Another Fourth catch was Joe LaMire's smallmouth black bass. The Escanaba fisherman used worms in Round Lake for the bronze-back which measured 19 1/2 inches in length and 14 1/2 inches in girth.

A Dog For Hunting

With the hunting season still some time away, now is the time for food - conservation - minded hunters to make their arrangements to secure a hunting dog. The role of a hunting dog as a food conservationist will become more important this year than ever before.

Whether the dog is a blooded retriever or just a pooch, he is still the best guarantee of the American hunter that he will be able to make use of every pound of game shot this year.

Blooded hunting dogs usually make the best retrievers, but almost any dog can be trained to find fallen game. The hunter who doesn't find all the game he kills will be wasting food as well as preventing some other hunter from enjoying a day in the field.

Recent Gem Thefts Are High Spot In Pilfering

By ARLENE WOLF
AP Newsfeature Writer
New York, July 6.—(P)—Within a month, two spectacular jewel thefts have come to light that make noted gem pilferings of the past look like shoplifting from the Five and Dime.

The theft of the Hesse crown jewels in Germany, of which three persons are accused, yielded $1,500,000 or better in one haul. A mysterious Japanese colonel is said to have pre-empted 10 trunks and five crates of jewels, gold and cash, worth some $30,000,000 from the Netherlands East Indies. Most of history's most nimblefingered crooks worked a lifetime without getting half as much.

Probably the only recorded gem theft that compares with the Hesse case was the looting of the French crown jewels from the Garde Meuble (The Royal Treasury) in Paris in 1792. Three famous diamonds—the Regent, Sancy and Hope—brought the value of that robbery up to $1,000,000 and other items probably accounted for at least another half-million.

Recent Diamond Story
It took more than 30 thieves six successive nights to pull off the Garde Meuble job. Some of the gems were recovered after part of the gang was caught, but the most valuable disappeared, including the Regent, originally taken from a mine by an Indian slave in 1701. The Indian had slashed a hole in the calf of his leg to secrete the diamond, confided his precious cargo to an English sea-captain, and of course never survived the voyage.

Some 15 months after the Garde Meuble robbery, the $25,000,000 Regent was found in a hole under the timberwork of a garret. The Sancy reappeared in 1828 when it was sold by a French merchant. It now belongs to Lady Astor, and is valued at $100,000. The Blue, or Hope diamond, reappeared on the market in 1830. It now belongs to Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, and is valued at around $300,000.

Probably one of the most brazen gem thefts of all time concerns another famous diamond—the Orloff. It was stolen from the eye of a Temple God in India by a French grenadier who embraced the Hindu faith, and professed sufficient piety to be admitted to the temple's inner sanctum. The grenadier pried out one of the diamond eyes. He sold the $450,000 stone for $10,000, and it was purchased later by Prince Orloff, who gave it to Catherine of Russia.

The Famous Koh-I-Noor
The Koh-I-Noor, famous $700,000 gem which ancient peoples believed gave its owner the rule of the world, wasn't exactly stolen. When Nadir Shah of Persia invaded India and sacked Delhi in 1739, the story goes, he learned that Mohammed Shah, King of Delhi, kept the stone concealed in his turban. Whereupon Nadir Shah invited Mohammed to dinner, proposed the ancient and friendly custom of an exchange of turbans as a sign of friendship, and got the Koh-I-Noor. When the British annexed the Punjab in 1850, they acquired the diamond, now in the crown of the Queen of England.

The English crown jewels figured in an attempted theft in 1871 when a glib Irishman appropriately named Col. Blood, somberly garbed as a narsen, went to the Tower of London with a woman he introduced as his wife, and took advantage of a fake faint to get acquainted with the tower-keeper, Talbot Edwards.

During his next visit, Blood proposed a marriage between one of Edwards' daughters and a pretended nephew of "Mrs. Blood." When Blood returned later with the nephew and a friend who, of course, wanted to see the jewels, Edwards was hit over the head and the jewels taken. Before they got far from the tower, the guards were after Blood and the nephew, but by a smart ruse Blood turned the crowd that had collected during the chase against Edwards' son-in-law by shrieking "Stop, thief!" at the innocent relative.

For some reason, all this amused King Charles II, who made Blood his bodyguard, and gave him 500 pounds a year for life. The jewels in question probably were worth about $80,000.

Probably one of the most successful of recent modern-day jewel thefts was a series of 50 pulled off by the so-called "after-dinner burglars," who took an estimated $2,000,000 worth in rich residential areas like Nassau and Westchester counties, New York, and the upper bracket portions of New Jersey.

One of their best known jobs was in 1927 when about $120,000 worth of gems was taken from Jesse Livermore and his weekend guests, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Aronson.

Two members of the gang were caught later, but none of the loot, except Livermore's watch, deposited in a Seventh Ave. mailbox, ever was recovered.

Master recoverer of stolen gems in the 1920's was a private detective, Noel Scaffa, who is estimated to have engineered the return of some $10,000,000 worth in his lifetime. Best remembered of his operations was the return of $683,000 in pearls and jewels to Mrs. James Donahu, daughter of F. W. Woolworth of dime store fame.

Mrs. Donahu emerged from a bath in a New York hotel in 1925 to find the gems missing from her room. Scaffa was indicted on charges of compounding a felony in paying $65,000 reward for the return of the gems, but was acquitted.

Announce Six-Year Plan For Training 571,195 Guardsmen

Baltimore, July 6 (AP)—Maj. Gen. M. S. Eddy, commander of the Second Army, announced today a six-year plan for the training of approximately 571,195 ground force troops of the National Guard in the United States.

General Eddy said actual training of the National Guard would continue to be a state function. The Army ground forces, however, will detail regular army instructors responsible for supervision of the training program.

The six-year program is designed to standardize National Guard training. It will go into effect when individual organizations reach an established quota of 45 per cent of the required number of enlisted personnel and 80 per cent of the required number of officers. During the first and second years training of units and individuals will be on the company level; during the third and fourth years, on a battalion level; during the fifth year on a regimental combat team and combat command level, according to General Eddy.

Regular army instructors who assist the National Guard in carrying out this plan intend to utilize every known type of training aid used effectively during the past war, General Eddy said.

Part of the program will be the establishment of officer candidate schools to which qualified National Guard personnel will be assigned.

National Guard divisions which have been or will be activated in the Second Army area are the 28th, 29th, and the 37th Infantry Divisions, located in Maryland, Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Indiana, and West Virginia.

Green Bay Youth Takes 3 Free Flight Events

Robert Cowles Jr., of Green Bay dominated the model airplane contest held here July Fourth under the auspices of the Strato-Fliers when he captured the Class A, B and C open events for free flight gasoline-powered models. Rex Coulter assisted the club in staging the event.

Richard Skoglund, city, also was a triple winner, copping the junior event in Class C for gas powered free flights, the junior event for Class B gas model control liner and junior event for Class C tow-line gliders.

Cowles, an ex-serviceman who makes flying model airplanes a hobby, took the Class A open with a Strato Streak powered with an Arden .09 engine. He followed it up in the Class B open with a win with a Crusader model powered with a Delong "30" engine and then took a third first in the Class C open free flight with a plane of his own design powered with a Hornet engine.

Skoglund won the Class C senior event with a Vagabond powered with an Ohlsson "60" engine. He took the Class B junior control liner victory with a Baby V Shark powered with an Ohlsson "25" engine and the Class C tow-line glider first with a Thermic "50."

Lenny Eldridge won the Class C senior free flight with a Mercury powered with a Rocket engine, while Dick Sandstrom won the Class B senior control line event with a Topping "100" powered with a Meiercraft engine.

Crashes marked the landings of many of the tiny, fragile craft and there was plenty of wreckage when the event, witnessed by a large number of persons, was over.

PRIMARY VOTE TESTS STASSEN

Election In Minnesota Will Decide Power Of GOP Aspirant

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Washington, July 6 (AP)—Three U. S. Senators come up for re-nomination in the west next week, with Minnesota's Republican primary on Monday providing one of the most significant tests of the year.

The three are Senators Shipstead (R-Minn.), Mitchell (D-Wash.), and Murdock (D-Utah.) The latter has no opposition.

But Shipstead, Minnesota's 65-year-old opponent of the United Nations organization, has one of the toughest fights of his career in trying for a fifth term.

The race, described by politicians as close, is important for its bearing on the 1948 presidential picture. Gov. Edward J. Thye, who is out after Shipstead's seat, has the support of Harold E. Stassen, three governor and Navy veteran. Both are strong advocates of a major role for America in international affairs.

Stassen is all but an avowed candidate now for the Republican presidential nomination. But his friends concede that a Shipstead victory might force Stassen to give up any hope for the 1948 nomination, just as the Wisconsin primary defeat forced Wendell L. Willkie to retire from the 1944 presidential race.

Stassen is not a candidate in Minnesota, it is true, and Shipstead is making much of that fact. But Stassen's formal announcement several months ago backing Thye for the senatorship and Luther Youngdahl for governor all but put him in the contests in person. Stassen lost prestige when he backed a losing candidate, Gov. Dwight Griswold, in the Nebraska June 11 Senatorial Primary which Republican incumbent Hugh Butler won with ease. His friends now say he must make a better showing as candidate-sponsor in his home state if he is to get midwest backing in the 1948 presidential convention.

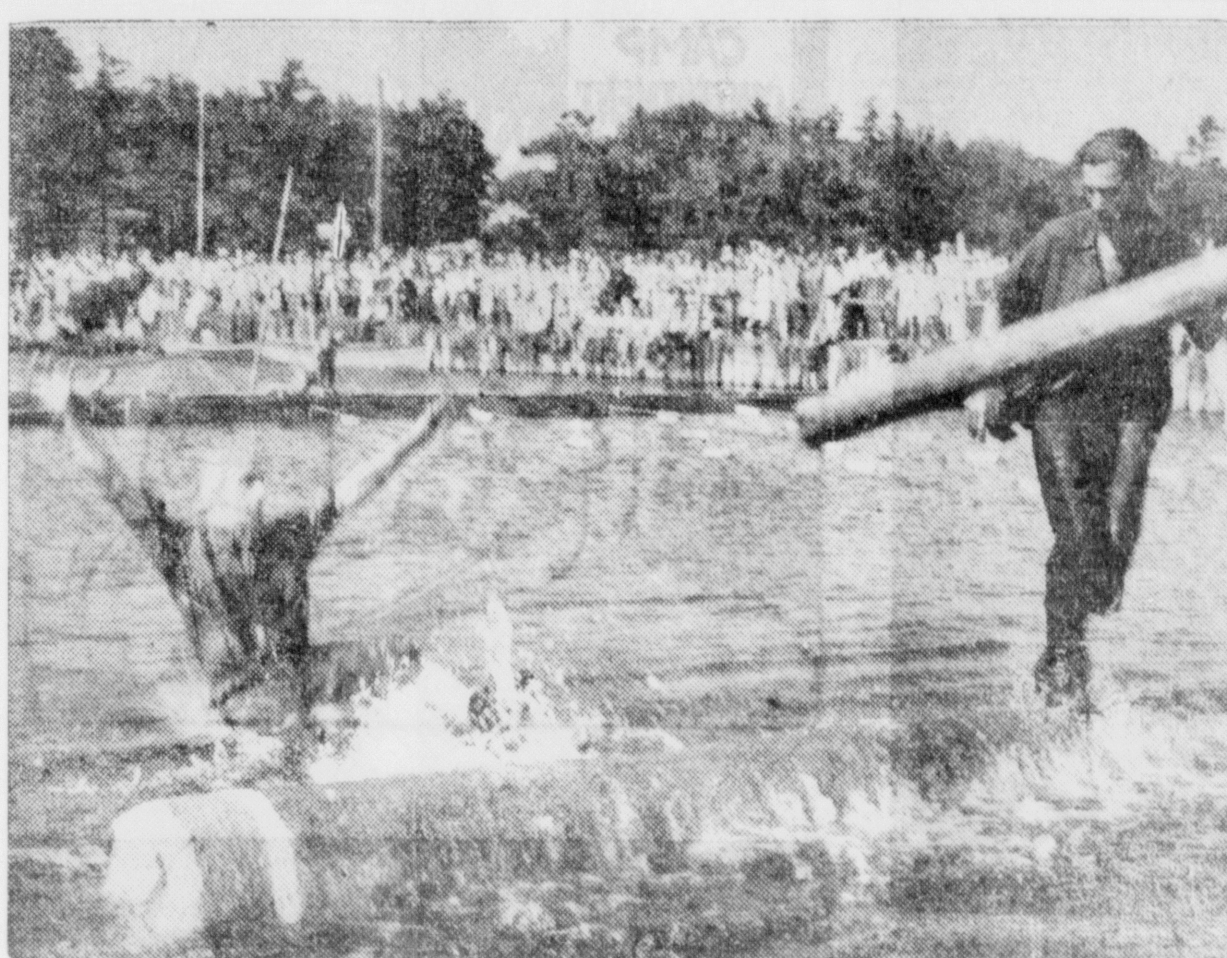

Both Thye and Youngdahl support Stassen's views in behalf of the United Nations. Shipstead, one of two senators to vote against American membership in the organization, has pointed to unpopularity as proof that he was right.

Hjalmar Petersen, a former Farmer-Laborite who served as governor a few months in 1936, is opposing Youngdahl.

NAME TWO TO BOARD MONDAY

J. T. Jones, Dr. G. Kelly Are Nominees For The Offices

The annual election of the Gladstone school district is scheduled for Monday and there are but two candidates for the two posts to be filled.

The two candidates are James T. Jones and Dr. George Kelly. Members of the board whose terms expire are James T. Jones, incumbent, and Joseph A. LaFramboise, who has moved to California to reside.

Other members of the present board are A. D. Harris, secretary, Dr. O. S. Hult and Soren Johnson. Mr. Jones is the current president and LaFramboise served as treasurer.

Registration of electors closed yesterday.

Roleo Notes

Highly pleasing to the spectators and roleo officials alike were the diving exhibitions given by Tommy Thompson, Chuck Gorman and Gilbert LaLande, all of Minneapolis. All are masters of the various standard dives and they like to improvise plenty that are not to be found in the books.

Equally pleasing were the demonstrations of various swim strokes and the ballet swimming done by Nancy Grubb of West high and Barbara Steichen of Holy Angels Academy. Both Nancy and Barbara appeared here in 1945 with a junior girls swim team of the Minneapolis Athletic Association.

Registration blanks for the Junior Camp of the Methodist Youth Fellowship to be held at Lake Michigamme July 27-August 3, are available at the Methodist parsonage, it was announced yesterday by Rev. Glenn Kjellberg, pastor.

The number of persons that can be accommodated is limited and registrations will be taken in the order in which applications are received, it was stated.

Youths interested may contact the pastor after morning services today.

Antimalarial Drug
Makes Nails Shine
With Fluorescence

Chicago—Toe and finger nails shine with a brilliant yellow-green light when a person who has taken anti-malarial doses of atabrine (quinacrine hydrochloride) is exposed to ultraviolet light.

This new test for this antimalarial drug widely used in the armed forces in the Pacific was independently discovered by three doctors and reported in the Journal of American Medical Association to be published Saturday.

Dr. Julius E. Ginsberg, dermatology professor of the Northwestern University Medical School, Chicago, who had taken atabrine regularly for two years as an army physician in the tropics, noticed the fluorescence of his own fingernails when examining a child under Wood's light, as physicians call ultraviolet. Col. Paul L. Shallenberger of Gardiner General Hospital, also of Northwestern, had noticed similar fluorescence.

At the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., Dr. Robert R. Kierland noticed the intense fluorescence of his own fingernails. He had returned from the Southwest Pacific where he had taken atabrine daily for almost two years.

Brownie Day Camp
All Set To Start
Tuesday Morning

Day camp will start for Brownies on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock when all the Brownies will meet at Hotel Ossa corner and hike together to the camp site at Trailer Park.

Girls wishing transportation will be picked up at Lincoln school at 8:45 and at Central school at 8:50 and will be taken to the hotel corner. After the camp session they will be driven from the hotel corner to their respective schools.

The girls are reminded to bring a plate and cup, preferably unbreakable, and a blanket or rug for their rest period.

Because of the extra activities of getting camp started, the girls are asked to bring their own lunch on the first day. Milk will be furnished and they are asked to bring sandwiches and a raw vegetable or fruit.

According to present regulations, more girls can be accommodated so any Brownie wishing to attend the camp who has not already registered, may do so on Tuesday morning at camp.

The girls are asked not to let bad weather keep them at home as a shelter is provided where most of the activities can be carried on indoors.

BODY OF WOODS WORKER FOUND

William Murray Died
From Natural Causes
Says Coroner

A heart attack is ascribed as the cause of the death of William Murray, 63, a timber worker residing at the Brickyard Flats east of the city.

Murray's body was found at the top of a sand dune back of his cabin late Friday afternoon, by Joe Decent, a neighbor, who with a number of residents of that vicinity had instituted a search for the man who had been absent from his home since the evening before.

Shortly before his disappearance, Murray had complained that he did not feel well and that he had decided to take a walk until he felt better. Earl Burns, another neighbor, anxious over Murray's long absence, suggested that a search be made. Knowing that he liked to roam among the dunes, they began search there and at last came upon the body at the highest point among the hills. He was lying face downward and had apparently died without a struggle.

Coroner George Morton, members of the sheriff's office and of the state police arrived on the scene soon after the discovery and decided immediately that death was due to natural causes and that no inquest was necessary.

Mr. Murray was born in Canada in 1883 and came here as a young man, being employed through the years as a timber worker. For the past four years he had lived in the small cottage near Earl Burns, for whom he worked. A sister, Mrs. Sadie Wyman, of Muskegon, and several nieces and nephews survive.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Morton Funeral Home. The Rev. William Harvey will conduct the services and burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Veterans Should Reinstate Their
Govt. Insurance

Pending legislation designed to liberalize the National Service Life Insurance Act makes it advisable for veterans whose insurance policies have lapsed to take steps to reinstate them immediately, says Leonard Muthaupt, Schoolcraft county veterans' counselor. Those seeking assistance in making out reinstatement applications should call on him at the Veterans' Counseling Center in the Manistique Bank building.

Chief among the features in the pending national legislation are:

1. Permission for lump-sum payments to beneficiaries.

2. Permission for the insured to designate anyone as a beneficiary.

3. Payments at the rate of $5 monthly for each $1,000 of insurance after six months of permanent disability, without impairing the face value of the policy.

4. Retroactive coverage for service men who applied for insurance and were rejected and who subsequently were retained in active service and were disabled or killed.

5. An increase of $5,000 (from $5,000 to $10,000) in the amount of free insurance given a man totally disabled or held prisoner at any time during his service.

6. A similar increase in free insurance for those who died in active service between Oct. 8, 1940 and April 20, 1942.

Another feature of the bill permits conversion of GI insurance into either 20 year endowment, endowment at age 60 or endowment at age 65 policies.

The city bus line, which started operations last Monday morning, has proved to be a most popular institution, not alone for the convenience it affords people in general but for the exciting diversion it has given youngsters. Like all fads, bus riding will become passe to the youngsters in time, but it is still in the heyday of its popularity and throughout most of the day the bus is filled with youngsters ranging from little tots to those in their early teens.

And come to think of it, that six and four-tenths mile ride has a whole lot more to offer the kids for their nickles than the recent carnival had. Those prices charged little tots for rides in those merry-go-round and ride devices was outrageous.

The writer who was one of the first customers of the new transit company, suggests that the city fathers be invited to make a complete round trip. He is sure that they would suddenly become aware of the fact that some of our city streets are in atrocious shape.

A world traveler was in our office the other day and told us that "It's wonderful up here." He had just come from Texas and the way he made in describing the heat and humidity in Houston and vicinity, was far more expressive than the vehement words he uttered. The Texas climate, he said, is far more disagreeable than that of Borneo and he was in a position to know, because he spent several years in that South Pacific island.

It did our heart good because Texans, like Californians, have a way of rubbing it into you if you come from any part of the world other than their native balliwicks.

A local resident complains of a recent experience in the neighboring city of St. Ignace that might call for a bit of investigating. He came over on the ferry late at night and found, to his chagrin, that every filling station in town was closed tighter than a drum. Inquiries as to how he might replenish his supply brought only shrugs. No small number of motorists were in the same fix and didn't care to risk the long journey to the next town. Just when they had about capitulated to doing what they'd "be damned if they'd do"—put up for the night—

TIGERS WHIP BROWNS 5 TO 1

Dizzy Trout Hurls A Four-Hitter For Bengals

Detroit, July 6 (P)—Helping himself to three unearned runs on three St. Louis errors, the Detroit Tigers whipped the Browns 5 to 1 today as Paul (Dizzy) Trout hurled a four-hitter for his eighth victory.

Detroit collected only six hits off Bob Muncie and Ellis Kinder, who pitched the eighth, but St. Louis errors kept the game from being close.

Muncie's error led to the first Tiger run in the second inning and John Lucadello's boot cost two more runs after two were out in the seventh.

Three of the Browns' four hits were bunched in the third inning, resulting in the only run off Trout, who struck out seven men.

Third Baseman George Kell, with three hits, drove in two Detroit runs.

Chatham All-Stars Play Redskins At Gladstone Today

Gladstone, Mich.—The Chatham All-Stars are coming to Gladstone today to play a return game with the Redskins. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Gladstone had an easy time with Chatham in the first game, winning 11-2, but Chatham since that time has defeated Escanaba, a team that trimmed Gladstone, and has also beaten Trenary, the only other team to upset the Redskins.

So it looks like it might be anybody's ball game.

Either Alden Haglund or Mel Rothchild will handle mound duties for Escanaba. The addition of Russ Carlson gives the Red-

American Leaguers Are Favored To Win Annual All Star Game Tuesday

BY BILL KING

Boston, July 6 (P)—When Red Sox Owner Tom Yawkey was spending his millions, he revised his Fenway Park for right-handed hitters and the American League managers apparently had that in mind when they selected the 25-man squad that Detroit's Steve O'Neill will master-mind against the National League's standouts in the 13th All-Star game here next Tuesday.

As if determined to see Yawkey's left field wall smashed to splinters, O'Neill's managerial rivals named such terrific right-handed hitters as Joe and Dom Di Maggio, Joe Gordon, Ken Keltner, Bobby Doerr, Rudy York, Luke Appling, Snuffy Surweiss, Frankie Hayes and Sam Chapman.

Good Hurling Staff

But while so doing, the junior circuit's pilots did not overlook the fact that the right field foul line measures only 302 feet and they added such left-handed power hitters as Ted Williams, Charlie Keller, Stan Spence, Mickey Vernon and Johnny Pesky to belt the National League's dream game pitching in that direction.

It also appeared insignificant that the American League's pitching selections have been unusually effective in Fenway. Known throughout the major leagues as graveyard for hurlers.

O'Neill can throw such able right-handers as Bob Feller, Spud Chandler, Jack Kramer and Dave Ferriss at the senior circuit's top sluggers and follow them up with such capable southpaws as Hal Newhouse and Mickey Harris. Those who set the baseball gambling odds have been so impressed by the American League's power and balance that they have made its forces 3-1 favorites for the 13th renewal of this dream game.

Since very few National Leaguers have had a chance to perform in Fenway, Chicago's Charlie Grimm and his advisors were unable to go on past performances in lining up the National League's All-Stars.

Grimm will have a notable array of sluggers in Fred (Dixie) Walker, Jini Cavarretta, Stan Musial, Johnny Mize, Johnny Hopp, Eddie Miller, Frank Marzette, Whitey Kurowski, Enos Slaughter, Phil Masi and Walker Cooper. They know little about Fenway Park's tricky air currents and the best methods of carrying its short barriers.

In previous years, the National Leaguers, while winning a third of the 12 AA-Star games in the record books, generally could be depended upon to come up with the most impressive pitching staff for that blue-ribbon event.

But their current flinging selections, which included Mort Cooper, Rip Sewell, Kirby Higbee, Howie Pollet, Ray Lamano, Johnny Schmitz and Ewell Blackwell, appear a bit eclipsed by the rival circuit's outstanding flingers going into the next of baseball's mid-summer extravaganzas.

Every club in both leagues will be represented on the All-Star rosters and most of the players have been through the testing fires of one or more previous games. The top-place Red Sox put eight of their performers on the list and the St. Louis Cardinals dominated the National League team with six players.

The Escanaba Cubs will play at Marquette this afternoon, meeting the Marquette Legionnaires in a Michigan Rainbow League game. Reports from Marquette indicate the game will attract the largest crowd of the season in the Queen city.

Manager Al Ness announced the following starting lineup: Schils 1b; Pruett cf; Thatcher 3b; Dufour ss; Finn rf; Rucha lf; Lough 2b; Scott, catching; and Thorin or Rademacher, pitching.

The club will leave from the Escanaba fieldhouse at 11:30 o'clock.

Marquette Legionnaires are leading the Rainbow League standings with four victories against one defeat, while the Cubs are at the bottom of the heap with one victory against three defeats. Marquette's lone defeat was to Gladstone and the Cubs' single victory was over the Gladstone Redskins.

Marquette will send its ace pitcher, Roy Olson, to the mound against the Cubs this afternoon.

The Gladstone team will be at full strength for the game, Manager Dib Bovin indicates.

Highlighted by Charlie Keller's booming triple to the right field wall, the Yankees greeted starter Jess Flores with the six of the 11 hits in the first inning which produced four runs. They finished Flores in the second with another run, but the A's fought back to within one of a tie in the third, sending young Clarence Marshall to the showers in favor of Randy Gumpert.

VISITORS HAVE STRONG RECORD

Junior Leaguers Play Preliminary Game At 12:30 p. m.

The Escanaba Bears baseball team will meet the star-studded Niagara Badgers at the Escanaba city diamond this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in a Northern Wisconsin Michigan league game. In a preliminary game to start at 12:30 o'clock, two local junior league teams, Webster Park and Ludington Park, will meet.

Leaders of the NWM league for eight successive years, before they dropped into second place Thursday, the Badgers have an impressive background of baseball history. Since they need a victory over the Bears to maintain the pace in the league, the Badgers undoubtedly will come to Escanaba today loaded for action.

Whitman vs. Beck?

There has been no indication yet whether Johnny Whitman, the peerless southpaw from Hancock, will pitch for the Badgers today or whether they will rely on Manko, the man who set up six successive victories for Niagara. The Bears figure it will be Whitman on the mound today, however, as Manko pitched Thursday at Iron Mountain. Also Manko has been on the losing end of his last two assignments and there are reports that he is nursing an ailing flipper.

In any case, it will be Jack Beck, the Bears' big right hander, pitching today for Escanaba. Beck is in the best shape that he has been in this year and unlimbered a strong fast ball in his last time out when he set down Channing here June 23 with only four hits.

Toddles Flath, who was unable to make the trip to Channing Thursday, will be behind the plate for the Bears today. Deloria will be at first, Jungles at second, Gersie at short and Pryal at third. Gus Maveunich will be in centerfield with Gardner in either right or left field. L'Houillier, Dube or Schwabach will draw the other outfield assignment.

Bus Service to Park

Bus service will be available to the ball park today, with one bus leaving the east end of Ludington street at 1:40 p. m. The other bus will leave 16th avenue north at 2:00 p. m.

Jerome Deloria, director of the junior league, has asked the players of the Ludington Park and Webster Park teams to report at 11:30 o'clock at the ball park. Their game will start at 12:30 and will be called at two o'clock.

The Ludington Park lineup will be Laviolette, catcher; Pryal, ss; Pearson, 2b; Gustafson, lf; Elliott, cf; Smith, rf; Myron, 3b; Abrahamson, pitcher; and Patrick, first base; with Chapekis, Sunquist, Kangas, Roman and Prokas as subs.

The Webster lineup will be Bernard, lf; Noel, cf; Courcense, c; Ramsperk, ss; Dufour, 3b; Lindley, 2b; Dezent, lf; Dawson, rf; Prevost, c; L'Houillier, Noel, Bernard and Nyquist will be subs.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Every member of the Escanaba Bears participated in the slugfest at Channing Thursday with at least one hit each and Manager John Schwabach figures that's an omen which means the batting drought is over for the Bears. They'll learn more about that today when they oppose the classy Niagara Badgers at the Escanaba park. If Johnny Whitman, the Hancock southpaw, is on the mound today for the Badgers, the Bears will get a real test of their newly acquired batting power. In the Copper Country league, Whitman hasn't allowed a run in 27 innings.

It still is uncertain, however, whether the Hancock southpaw will be on deck for the Badgers. He was signed up with Niagara several weeks ago but has not yet appeared in the Badger lineup. Two games were rained out but on at least one occasion he would not have been present even if the game had been played. The Badgers need him badly now.

The Bears are playing their best brand of baseball of the season right now and they're a dangerous threat to any team in the league. Manager Schwabach reported that the club performed beautifully at Channing, bearing out his earlier prediction that a bit of warm weather would show a marked improvement in the team. Two victories in their last three games has provided the club with the confidence that it needed. Now they're shooting for a place in the four-way playoffs.

The Detroit Silents softball team, representing the Detroit Association for the Deaf, which played in Escanaba Friday and Saturday nights and at Gladstone July 4, were exceptionally popular with the fans of both cities. Their triple header at Gladstone Thursday in which they swept all three games undoubtedly handicapped them for their game here Friday night with the VFW. Their defeat in that game resulted from the weakness of their pitchers, probably an aftermath of overwork.

Despite their inability to present vocal protests, the Silents have no difficulty conveying to the umpire their displeasure with decisions. The crowd was with them, too. They are a fine softball team and great sportsmen. The Escanaba Softball association and the local fans will be pleased to schedule them again next time they're up this way on a softball tour. No visiting club captured the hearts of local fans as these deaf mutes did.

Sarge Harold Mayer, the Manistique batter who threw Escanaba fight fans into convulsions with his clowning in a match with Ray Goodnough May 27, literally stole the show at Manistique the fourth of July. The guy is a natural comic but don't let his clowning deceive you. He packs quite a wallop in his mitts, too. Fight fans will probably see more of him next fall.

CUBS WIN TWIN BILL WITH REDS

26-Inning Run Famine Finally Ends For Chicago

Chicago, July 6 (P)—The Chicago Cubs ended a 26 inning run famine today, defeating the Cincinnati Reds in 12 innings, 2 to 0, then triumphing over the Reds in the second game, 1 to 0.

Pinch hitter Frank Secory's home run with Billy Jurgas aboard gave the Cubs the winning margin in the opener. One run in the fourth inning of the second game gave Pitcher Hank Wyse his eighth victory of the season.

In the second game veteran Harry Gumbert checked the Cubs on five hits, but two were blended for the lone run in the fourth inning. Stan Hack singled for the first hit off Gumbert. He reached second on Don Johnson's infield roller, and scored on Eddie Waitkus's single.

Landlords Protest Meeting Picketed By Ex-Servicemen

Detroit, (AP)—A meeting of an estimated 700 landlords, protesting proposed restoration of OPA rent controls, was picketed here by about 100 placard-carrying veterans.

The landlords—members of the Detroit and Michigan Property

Owners' Association—voted to send a 14-man committee to confer with Governor Kelly on Monday and to send the group to Washington later.

Several landlords told the meeting they had sustained considerable loss because of damage done by undesirable tenants and of cases where operating expenses were higher than their incomes from property.

TYPHUS THREAT UNDER CONTROL

UNRRA Providing Pure Water Supply For City Of Athens

By SIGRID ARNE
Washington, July 6 (AP)—Alarmed doctors in Athens told the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation (UNRRA) staff that typhus in the city could get out of control and spread to southern Europe.

The city had no water system. To the north the Marathon Dam had been wrecked by the war. What precious pure water there was came from too few wells.

UNRRA decided that water for Athens was a legitimate expense under its rules for "rehabilitation" work. It sent in supplies to drill wells to build a pipe-line. The typhus scare died.

This is an example of the rehabilitation job UNRRA began to do as soon as the "first things first" program—food, clothes and medicine—was moving. UNRRA has steered clear of actual "reconstruction" work because that is a job for commercial building concerns. UNRRA donates machinery only where the lack keeps whole communities flat on their backs.

Such lacks have been for the most part, UNRRA experts say, in little things.

Albania depended on horses for hauling and transportation. But the Germans and Italians either killed or stole their animals. There was nothing to haul food up into the hills.

UNRRA bought U. S. Army trucks and turned them over to the government. They're the Nation's whole transportation system.

In Warsaw the starved and war-shocked Poles were actually trying to clear house-high piles of debris with their bare hands. UNRRA has gotten in some bulldozers.

Poland needed some less spectacular things too. She has been sent 150,000 chicks to start a poultry industry again. She has asked for 4,000 cats to fight the mice eating her scant grain supply.

Coal was a problem for Greece in its cement and glass factories, badly needed for rebuilding the Nation's homes.

Coal could be landed at Trieste, a Yugoslav port, but no railroad was in existence across the Greek-Yugoslav border.

UNRRA people found a spot where a Yugoslav and a Greek railroad passed each other, only 400 yards apart. They shipped in 400 yards of trackage, and the Greeks laid the road bed.

In Czechoslovakia a whole textile town was idle—while millions of war victims had too few clothes and war-tired women hungered for sheets, towels, curtains at the windows again.

There was raw cotton on hand. The town's textile machinery was intact except for a little gadget that fits onto the looms. UNRRA found the gadgets in the United States and Great Britain. They were flown in.

In China wheat has idled at the ports, while up-country thousands starved, eating weeds and clay. There were no railroad, no trucks, no un-wrecked highroads. UNRRA's solution was the purchase of 1,000 small craft from the U. S. Navy. LST's are starting up the Yangtze River loaded with wheat.

Says Russia Made Most Concessions At Paris Meeting

By JAMES D. WHITE

(P) Staff Writer

Russia did most of the conceding at Paris.

This is clear if you check off the way the various issues handled by the Big Four Foreign Ministers were resolved—the Dodecanese, Italian Colonies, Trieste, a European peace conference late this month.

Even in getting her reparations from Italy, Russia agreed to a moratorium and agreed to figure in some Italian property in the Ukraine which Mr. Molotov appeared to have overlooked.

One can only assume that Russia, considering the European theater as a whole decided that the possible price of not making such concessions would be more expensive than the price of making them.

One reason may be that Russia, as this column has pointed out before, has other eggs in other baskets.

There are such prime questions as British, French and Dutch Colonies and the unrest they contain, but the ones Russia seems to have her eye on are questions that primarily concern the United States.

One is in Tokyo, where the Soviet delegate to the Allied council has been "asking questions" about Supreme Allied Commander MacArthur's policy in administering Japan.

Another is in Korea, where joint Soviet-American machinery to get that country going again has ground to a halt.

Today the Soviet Press, which has been complaining all along about things in Japan and Korea, turned its criticism on American action in China. It charged that America is supporting a reactionary regime, transporting reactionary troops to make civil war on people's armies, and trying to reduce China to a semi-colonial status.

This is just what the Chinese Communists have been saying and also represents a continuance of the recent Soviet editorial tactic of concentrating on American policy.

First U. S. all-metal transport plane was the Stout "Pullman," built in 1924.
